Old law may doom pre-1925 buildings

by STEVE BROWN

Des Plaines is going to lose the brick and mortar of its history if an old city law is followed to the letter.

The law says that every building in designated areas built before 1925 will have to be renovated to meet new building codes or come down.

Trouble is, no one at city hall quite knows exactly which buildings will be eligible to come down under the law.

Under the terms of the zoning ordinance adopted 14 years ago, structures built before 1925 in certain areas do not conform, and must be removed or converted by Jan. 1.

NEITHER DES PLAINES Building Comr. William Baldaccini nor Michael Richardson, the city director of planning and zoning, said they had any record of which structures fall into this category.

Generally, the regulations would prohibit further operation of some businesses in residential areas and in some cases residential buildings in commercial areas will no longer be permitted.

Baldaccini said he and his staff have not had an opportunity to compile the information on what buildings might be subject to the nonconforming-use provisions.

The zoning ordinance states the provisions were instituted so that "those nonconforming uses, buildings and structures which adversely affect the orderly development and taxable value of other property in that district, not be permited to continue indefinitely."

RICHARDSON ALSO said recently the city did not have a list compiled as to which buildings in the city fall under the nonconforming-use category which comes under consideration next year.

Baldaccini said he believes the city will begin a survey of all structures in Des Plaines in the near future as part of the city's involvement in the U.S. Housing and Community Development Act.

Under that program, the city will identify areas that could become blighted.

According to the zoning ordinance, the city can condemn, demolish or take over the operation of any property which is considered a non-conforming use, however, the plan commission must study the area involved before any action is taken.

Baldaccini said he did not know whether or not the city would try to enforce the ordinance.

The ordinance also spells out the timetable for other structures and indicates structures built between 1925 and 1930 must be eliminated by Jan. 1, 1980; structures built between 1930 and 1935 must be eliminated by Jan. 1, 1895, and all buildings built after 1935 must be either eliminated or brought into compliance before 1990.

Building fee decline may continue

Des Plaines Building Comr. William Baldaccini predicts that the city's building-permit fee revenue could be down next year because no major construction projects are currently being reviewed by his department.

Preliminary reports for 1974 indicated the city's building-permit revenue will drop for the second straight year.

Baldaccini said he is not aware of any major construction projects that will get under way during the first part of 1975. He said the start of the downtown redevelopment project and tentative plans for a new structure in the Universal Oil Products office complex, Algonquin and Mount Prospect roads, could produce sizable permit fee revenue in 1975.

He attributed the decrease in building permit revenue to the general slow down in construction.

He also said a number of major construction projects such as the new city hall and police building brought in no permit fees.

During the first 11 months of 1974, the city obtained $133,115 in building-permit fees on building projects with a declared valuation of $24,712,709.78. During all of 1973, the city saw the start of construction with a declared valuation of $26,679,395.

Custodians charge schools ignore students' welfare

by LINDA PUNCH

The custodian and maintenance union of Des Plaines Dist. 62 is calling on board of education members to forget their interest in money and pay "attention to the welfare of the children."

Edward Cristoni, president of the custodians-Maintenance Assn. issued a statement this week accusing the board of "putting priorities on a few dollars instead of the children."

Cristoni said negotiations with the board are "locked on the subject of working hours." The CMA negotiators are objecting to the board's refusal to post regular working hours.

"For over 10 years the hours were posted and entered in the handbook subject to change by the administration," he said. "Now the board wants to unilaterally eliminate posted working hours."

CRISTONI SAID the CMA spent 14 hours in bargaining sessions with the board with no progress on the working hours proposal. He said the board and administration are attempting to break up the CMA by "delaying and dragging out negotiations ad infinitum."

Board member Philip Bock, a member of the board negotiating team, said "negotiations are going well as far as I can tell." He denied the CMA's contention that the board is trying to break up the union.

"We've covered enough items to fill 20 typewritten pages. We've gone from a two-page contract last year to a multiple-page contract this year — it takes time to work out the language to the mutual satisfaction of both sides," he said.

Bock said he thinks "both sides are negotiating in good faith. We've covered quite a bit since we began." Items still unsettled include salary, work days, overtime and the hours of work, he added.

Salary talks broke off after one session between the board and union negotiators last spring. Board negotiators refused a 15 per cent raise requested by the union. Contract talks resumed in September after the union voted to be represented by the Illinois Education Assn.

Paramedics' first day: a busy Yule

Christmas Day found Des Plaines paramedics treating a heart-attack victim, a drug-overdose and inserting an intravenous tube.

On any day before Dec. 25 the calls would have been straight-up ambulance calls, but Christmas marked the first day of the city's new paramedic service. The department was granted its state certification the evening before and the trauma units went into immediate operation.

The department's five paramedics — Roland Rossi, Charles Harris, Arnold Torkelson, James Boho and Jeff Claus — were awarded paramedic certificates earlier this month following completion of more than 180 hours of special training.

Equipped with a special mobile intensive-care van stocked with $8,000 worth of lifesaving equipment, the paramedics are trained to give on-the-scene treatment to accident and heart-attack victims.

FIRE CHIEF Donald Corey said five more firemen in the department completed the testing portion of the paramedic program this month and have only to complete five actual paramedic runs with certified paramedics before they themselves are certified.

Corey said the men must make runs with other area fire departments which have had certified paramedic programs for at least one year. Des Plaines paramedic trainees have been making paramedic runs with the Arlington Heights Fire Dept.

The city's first paramedic unit is operating out of Fire Station No. 1, 405 S. River Rd., but Corey said the department will eventually have paramedic units housed at each of the city's three fire stations.

Corey said that by early spring the department hopes to replace its oldest ambulance with a second mobile intensive-care unit. Five more paramedics should be certified by February and ready to operate the second van by the time it arrives, Corey said.

Profiles of 7 candidates for school board seat

by BOB GALLAS

Seven persons have applied to fill the vacant seat on the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education.

Applications will be accepted through Wednesday. The vacancy was created Nov. 16 by the resignation of Charles Knaup.

Here is a rundown on the candidates:

• Donald Storino, 707 W. Noyes St., Arlington Heights. A resident of Arlington Heights for one year, Storino moved here with his wife and two young sons from Elmwood Park. He is a former high school teacher currently practicing law with the Chicago firm of Foran, Wiss and Schultz.

Storino, 28, is a graduate of Notre Dame University and received his law degree from DePaul University, Chicago. "The best way to become involved in the community is through the schools, the most important part of the community," he said.

• Penny Lubeck, 328 Banbury Ave., Elk Grove Village. A housewife, Mrs. Lubeck, 34, plans to study real estate next month. She has been a resident of Elk Grove Village for 13 years, with four children, ages 17, 14, 2½ and 1.

"I was pleased with the education my oldest daughter received in Dist. 59, but in the last two years I have not been pleased," said Mrs. Lubeck.

Mrs. Lubeck said she believed in some instances there was too much "pressure" on children and that there should be more emphasis on letting children "progress at their own rate. I want my younger children to receive as good an education as the older ones."

• Virginia Nepodahl, 44 Keswick, Elk Grove Village. Mrs. Nepodahl attended Northwestern University and taught at Queen of the Rosary School in Elk Grove Village. She also has served as a teacher aide in Dist. 59.

A resident of the village since 1962, she is the mother of three children who no longer attend school in Dist. 59. Mrs. Nepodahl, 52, said she was generally pleased with educational programs in the district and was happy to see the controversy surrounding Supt. James Erviti resolved with his negotiated resignation.

• Corinne McConaghey, 1328 S. Mallard Ln., Mount Prospect. Mrs. McConaghey, 32, has been a Mount Prospect and district resident for two years.

She earned a bachelor's degree from Loyola University, New Orleans, and is a trained nuclear medicine technologist.

Mrs. McConaghey said she is interested in helping to establish "more communications" between the board of education and various Mount Prospect groups and municipal agencies.

• Jean Cashman, 956 Brantwood, Elk Grove Village. Mrs. Cashman, 46, is a former teacher with a degree in education from the University of Illinois. Mrs. Cashman could not be reached for comment Thursday.

• Renee Maddock, 230 Lahey Circle, Des Plaines. Founder of the Einstein School Parent Organization in Des Plaines, Mrs. Maddock is employed at Maine West High School in Des Plaines. She could not be reached for comment Thursday.

• Betty Weisenborn, 700 Victoria, Des Plaines. Mrs. Weisenborn also was unavailable for comment Thursday.

Whoever is selected by the board to fill the vacancy will serve until school board elections in April; an election then will be held to fill the remainder of Knaup's term, which runs to April 1976.

Members of the board are asking candidates for the appointment to commit themselves to run for the unexpired term in April. The board expects to fill the vacancy by its meeting Jan. 20.

Young mother reaps Lottery bonanza

Husband's joking call turns prophetic—to tune of $300,000

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Mrs. Lena M. Juska of Chicago, the mother of a 19-month-old daughter, Thursday won the $300,000 Bonanza at the Illinois Lottery drawing.

Mrs. Juska was not present for the drawing, but when reached by telephone she said: "I've been so nervous all week that I haven't been able to sleep or eat."

She said she didn't know what she will do with the money "but nothing foolish. It will be put to good use."

MRS. JUSKA said her husband, who works for a Chicago company, called her about 30 minutes before the drawing and said he was Gov. Daniel Walker calling to congratulate her. "I just wanted to hit him," she said.

She said she has been buying tickets since the first week of the Lottery, some five months ago. She didn't say how many she buys each week.

The $50,000 winner, Richard D. Cole, also of Chicago, was not present.

The $10,000 winners were John Burnett, Beardstown, Ill.; Frank A. Gober, Moline, Ill.; Sidney Radis, Skokie, Ill.; Francisco Ubina, Chicago; Donald J. Rauger, Chicago; William Adamik, Chicago; John C. Miller, Kenosha, Wis.; Thelma L. Monk, Zion, Ill., and Edward J. Ciaramita, Ottawa, Ill.

THIRTY PERSONS FROM Illinois, Missouri and Wisconsin were eligible for the $300,000 Bonanza prize.

The drawing, held at the State Armory, was the final of 1974. During the five months of operation this year, the Lottery winners included three $1 million prizes, 20 $300,000 prizes, three $100,000 prizes, 20 $50,000 prizes and 193 $10,000 prizes.

Here is the latest set of winning numbers in the Illinois Lottery.

In the Weekly Lottery contest:

03 38 35 42 21

Matching three of these two-digit numbers is worth $20. Four is worth $100. All five is worth $5,000.

In the Weekly Bonanza and Millionaire contests:

733 603 176

Matching two of these three three-digit numbers makes you eligible for the $300,000 top prize (one week later) or the $1 million jackpot (every two months).

In the Trips to the Sun contest:

Matching this number earns the ticketholder $80 (the cash prize will increase in the next four weeks) and makes him eligible for one of 10 all-expense-paid trips for two. The final drawing will be held Jan. 30, 1975.

Old law may doom pre-1925 buildings

The walls may come tumbling down in Des Plaines next week if a 14-year-old city law is enforced. The original law calls for complete renovation or destruction by the end of this year for all buildings put up before 1925. The idea for the law 14 years ago was to periodically rid the city of old structures. Now the deadline is here but with the passage of time no one in city hall knows exactly which buildings were built that long ago.

Work on 'Bather' to resume

Building of another sort will resume Monday on the now famous Picasso sculpture, "The Bather." Carl Nesjar, the Norwegian artist commissioned to turn the sketch into concrete, will begin injecting concrete into wooden forms early next week. Nesjar may attempt to complete the entire process in one 12-hour day. The sculpture has been purchased by and will be displayed at the headquarters for Gould Inc. on Golf Road near the Northwest Tollway.

Blame told for faulty furnaces

A federal agency probe into furnace problems in Elk Grove Village blames improper installation and code violations as the cause for the premature furnace failures. The investigation conducted by the U.S. Consumer Products Safety Commission reveals that faulty installation of the furnaces apparently took place while the homes were being inspected by representatives of the Federal Housing Administration. The consumer safety commission has ended its probe, citing its findings and concluding the matter is now out of its jurisdiction.

Accident victim still serious

Thirteen-year-old Debra A. Koblenz remains in serious condition at Northwest Community Hospital after being struck by a commuter train Tuesday near the Arlington Park station platform. Debra was hit by a westbound Chicago and North Western train when she stepped backward off the platform.

Elk Grove woman abducted

An 18-year-old Elk Grove Village woman was abducted at gunpoint Thursday night from the Woodfield Shopping Center and forced to drive to a construction site in Rolling Meadows. Schaumburg police said a man who had threatened the woman on two previous occasions held a gun to her head during the incident. The woman escaped unharmed when the man left the car.

Fire at Northwest Community

A fire in the basement of Northwest Community Hospital early Thursday caused extensive damage to electrical equipment but caused no disruption of the hospital. Firemen struck the blaze which started in a construction area. Electricity was supplied by the hospital's emergency generator.

Teens bid for world record

By the time you read this, a world's record may have been set. Late last night four teen-agers were still creating what may well be the world's largest and longest paper-clip chain. It all started in an Arlington Heights flower shop where the three teens work. With little to do over the holidays, the paper-clip chain was begun. Soon the names Doug Hill, Ernie Shalk and Jeff Pritchard will be linked to perhaps the world's longest useless object.

Rep. Pierce joins anti-Choate ranks

by United Press International

Illinois House Minority Whip Daniel M. Pierce, D - Highland Park, Thursday jumped on the anti-Choate bandwagon, saying he would refuse to serve in any party leadership capacity if State Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anna, is elected speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives.

Pierce told a news conference at the Illinois State Building that all "good Democrats" should join him and even "refuse to participate in the Democratic caucus" under Choate's leadership.

Four candidates have announced for the speakership, but not Choate. They are Representatives William Redmond, D-Bensenville; John Matijevic, D-North Chicago; Rolland Tipsword, D-Taylorville, and Gerald Bradley, D-Bloomington. All are anti-Choate and Pierce said he could support any of the four.

PIERCE SAID Choate's failure to announce for the post indicated the "possibility that Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley had not yet committed "the 42 or 45" members loyal to him to Choate's campaign.

Pierce also said while Gov. Daniel Walker had not backed any of the four announced independent candidates for speaker, his aides had indicated that "Choate is apparently unacceptable to the administration."

It has become apparent, Pierce said, that Choate will not be able to muster enough Democratic votes to win.

But, he said, Choate would try "to deal with the remnants of the Republican West Side block and the discredited Blair (ousted speaker W. Robert) faction in an effort to win the leadership."

Following last November's election, Illinois Democrats captured majorities in the Senate and the House.

'Skinnydip' to bring state probe

A nude swimming party by male and female staff members of an Illinois state mental health center has sparked a state investigation, officials said Thursday.

Dr. LeRoy P. Levitt, director of the Illinois Dept. of Mental Health, confirmed that the skinnydipping took place earlier this month in the adult pool of the Chicago-Read Mental Health Center and that he had ordered an investigation.

Levitt said, "We hope by next Tuesday to have the appropriate data to act . . . I can assure you it will be swift and it will be done."

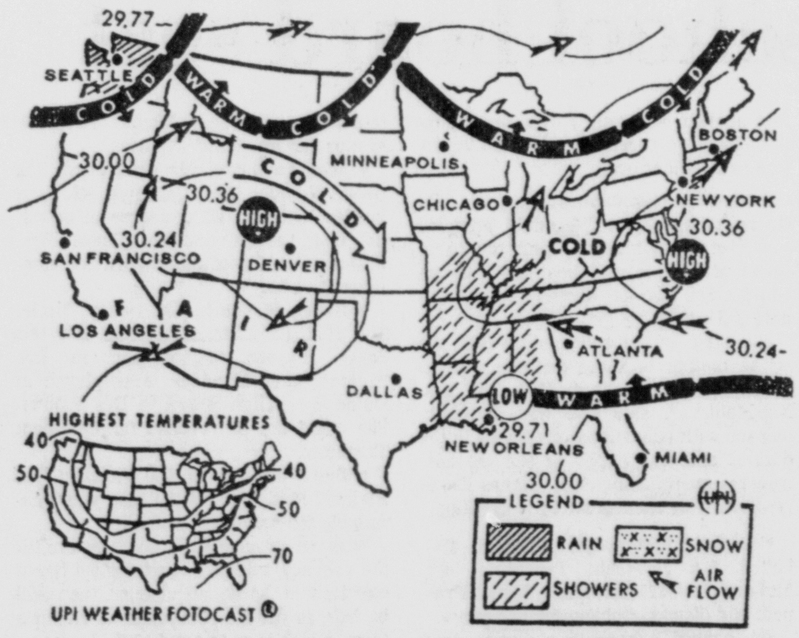

According to initial information available to state officials, more than a dozen male and female staff members of the health center stripped to the buff for an after-hours swimming session.

Levitt said he ordered Alan Grischke, regional attorney for the mental health department, to make an investigation and that he intended to take action by Dec. 31. "We will not tolerate unprofessional behavior," Levitt said.

The doctor stressed that those involved were staff members of the center and not patients. "This isn't therapy," he said. Depending upon the investigation, Levitt said, those involved could face "some sort of suspension pending discharge."

Disturbing study details teen-age drinking, driving

by CRAIG A. PALMER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An "alarming . . . frightening" number of teen-agers have either driven while drunk or been passengers in cars with heavy-drinking drivers, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said Thursday.

The agency's $100,000 study on teen-age drinking says:

—Many teen-agers say they have frequently driven when they are "really pretty drunk."

—One-fourth say they have driven once or twice when they knew themselves to be too drunk to drive.

—Another one-fourth have driven three or more times when drunk.

Thirty-two per cent report being a passenger at least once a month in a car operated by a heavily drinking driver.

"I don't know whether you'd call it surprising, alarming or frightening," said NHTSA Administrator James B. Gregory, who presented the findings at a briefing. Gregory said the federally financed research by Grey Advertising, Inc., of New York, strongly suggests a redirection of the agency's efforts to discourage drunk driving. "No amount of legal action will tend to correct the problem," he said.

Gregory said the agency's future activities would be directed more toward encouraging social pressures against drinking and driving, and social acceptance of such remedies as physically restraining drinking friends and relatives from driving.

Alcohol is involved in half the nation's highway fatalities, which totaled 54,600 in 1973.

Even with an expected reduced number of fatalities, 20,000 or more traffic deaths this year are attributable to alcohol.

The study found that neither scare tactics nor legal threats discourage teen-age drinking and driving. Drinking teens don't view the legal consequences of being stopped by police as serious and don't consider death or crippling injury a likely consequence, the study said.

Nor are teen-age drinkers a fringe group. "They are not far-out, drop-out, alienated or under-achieving types," the study said. They represent the same levels of achievement in school work, sports and activities as non-drinking young people.

"The study . . . reveals that there is an alarming amount of drinking and driving taking place among a large, mainstream group of U.S. youth," the report said. "In fact, high school students are in contact with alcohol-related situations almost as often as adults are today."

Watergate trial nears end

From Herald news services

Under pressure from U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica to get it over with, the long-running Watergate coverup trial goes into the end phase today.

Final arguments will be completed and Sirica — who kept the proceedings running longer Thursday — will give the case to the jury Monday, after his own final instructions of two to three hours. Sirica had hoped to get the case to the jury today, but the final arguments have been taking longer than expected.

The jurirs heard a strong pitch for acquittal Thursday, as John D. Ehrlichman's lawyer urged them to "bind up the nation's wounds," torn by Watergate, by finding his client innocent of all charges in the plot.

As the 13-week-old trial sped toward conclusion, Ehrlichman lawyer William S. Frates closed his case as he had opened it — by charging that Richard M. Nixon had deceived and misled his No. 2 aide, thus making Ehrlichman a victim of the scandal instead of a perpetrator.

He said Ehrlichman was "thrown to the wolves" by the former President in the spring of last year, despite his long and loyal service, as Nixon scrambled to save his own neck.

"I say that based on the evidence in this case, John Ehrlichman is innocent of these charges," Frates said in wrapping up a three-hour summation. "I ask you to help bind up his wounds . . . It is time to bind up the nation's wounds and get on with our job."

"He didn't think the President was involved," Frates said. "He really didn't think Nixon was involved.

"Here's this dedicated, loyal servant trying to clear his commander-in-chief regardless of who got hurt — and here's the commander-in-chief sitting in his office, all the time knowing who's calling all the shots."

Ehrlichman and his four co-defendants — John N. Mitchell, H. R. Haldeman, Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson — are all accused of conspiracy to cover up the bugging scandal.

Mardian attorney Thomas C. Greca charged there was "only sand beneath the case" against his client, noting Mardian is the only one of the five not charged with obstruction of justice. He also apologized for Mardian's abrasive conduct on the witness stand.

"This trial is not a popularity contest," Green said. "I apologize if anything I have done offended you and the same goes for him. He waited 11 weeks to take the witness stand. It is a terrible burden to be a witness; it is a terrible burden to wait to take the stand, and people react to burdens differently. If when my client was on the stand his zeal offended you, I ask you to forgive him and consider only the facts."

He said the government was wrong even to indict Mardian, but that that wrong could be righted by a verdict of innocent.

Waiting: Ehrlichman, Haldeman, Mitchell, Parkinson and Mardian.

THE ALMOST total devastation of Darwin, Australia, is shown in this scene along Stuart Highway, the main road into the city ripped by a Christmas day cyclone. Up to 80 persons may have died, and thousands are being evacuated.

Help pours to cyclone-battered Darwin

DARWIN, Australia (UPI) — American and British aircraft Thursday joined a huge armada of planes and ships ferrying emergency aid into cyclone-destroyed Darwin and evacuating more than one-fourth of the city's 37,000 people.

Medical teams were flown in to combat threats of cholera, tetanuss, gangrene salmonella and other diseases in the wake of Cyclone Tracy. Dr. Gwyn Howells, federal director-general of health, said the medical relief operation was the biggest mounted in Australia since World War II.

Rescue authorities said 44 persons were known to have died and said the death toll could reach 80. Hundreds were injured and 20,000 homeless in the devastation wrought by the cyclone whose 125-mile-an-hour winds demolished or seriously damaged 90 per cent of Australia's northernmost city Christmas Day.

The Weather Bureau said the death toll may not have been as high if cyclone warnings had been heeded.

Steve West, senior meteorologist at the bureau's Perth station, said Tracy was tracked for 2½ days before it struck Darwin and 20 cyclone warning were issued. A warning that "very destructive winds" up to 100 miles an hour would lash Darwin was issued 15 hours before the storm hit full-force he said.

"It is pretty obvious that some lives could have been saved if people had taken some precautions," he said.

In the first broadcast from Darwin since the cyclone hit, Minister for Northern Development Rex Patterson said at least 10,000 persons will be evacuated.

"Everyone here is a mouth to feed, we've got to thin out," he said.

Able-bodied men were asked to stay behind to help rebuild the isolated frontier community in the Australian tropics 2,000 miles northwest of Sydney.

Prime Minister E. Gough Whitlam cut short a scheduled 5½-week European tour to fly to Darwin to see for himself what his government has described as "the most serious and sudden calamity that has ever struck an Australian city or town."

Ford, energy advisers meet today

VAIL, COLO. (UPI) — Heralding a major policy conference with his chief energy advisers Friday at this Rocky Mountain winter resort, Prsident Ford again rejected Thursday any gasoline tax increase to curb oil consumption.

"That's about as dead as any option I know," said Ford, clad in his bright orange parka as he started up the ski slopes for his fifth day of holiday skiing.

Ford did not rule out consideration of a gas tax along with other proposals he will discuss with his advisers, but said: "I think there are many better choices."

The President, in an impromptu session with reporters, also indicated that he may make public the report on the Central Intelligence Agency inquiry into charges that the spy agency conducted surveillance against American dissidents and antiwar protesters.

Ford said he would have a quiet New Year's Eve celebration with his family and told reporters: "We'll leave it all up to you to tear the town up."

The President arranged to spend a lot of time on the ski slopes Thursday because he will be preoccupied with the Friday cabinet-level meeting to take another look at the recommendations of his Energy Resources Council.

The President also scheduled a Saturday morning session with the economic advisors, some of whom also will be sitting in on the energy meeting.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen stressed that Ford will not make his final decisions during the weekend sessions. But he also made clear that the two most pressing domestic problems — the economic slump and the energy shortage — will be the main thrust of Ford's State of the Union address which he will personally deliver to Congress around Jan. 16.

White House security tightened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A full-scale review of White House security is being undertaken after a 25-year-old man crashed his car through a gate Christmas Day.

But officials say it would not be practical to provide absolute protection against any such incident without making the White House an "armed camp."

President Ford and his family were not home when Marshall Hill Fields rammed his car through the northwest gate and threatened to blow himself up within 20 feet of the White House. More drastic action would have been taken if the First Family had been there, said Secret Service agent George Cosper.

As it was, agents negotiated for four hours with Fields before he gave up and was taken to St. Elizabeth's mental hospital for observation. No charges were filed and no explosives were found.

Nevertheless, Treasury Secretary William Simon and other security officials said the incident would be reviewed in relationship to overall security at the presidential home.

The first security measure to be taken is replacement of the northwest gate, erected at the end of the 19th Century and strengthened several times since.

The Christmas Day incident is the second time in 10 months that the White House compound has been breached. On Feb. 17, Army Pvt. Robert K. Preston commandeered a helicopter from Ft. Meade, about 30 miles from Washinton, buzzed the Capitol and the Washington Monument and landed on the White House lawn. He took off, but on a second landing try was brought down by gunfire.

Preston, who received minor wounds, was given a year in the stockade and a $2,400 fine.

Judge upholds ruling denying Chicago funds

by United Press International

A U. S. District Court judge Thursday refused to reverse a ruling by another federal judge which denied the City of Chicago nearly $20 million in revenue-sharing funds because of alleged race and sex discrimination in its police force.

Judge Prentice Marshall refused to countermand the ruling ordering the Office of Revenue Sharing to withhold Chicago's quarterly payment of $19.2 million due Jan. 5 until it complies with a federal court plan to end the discrimination.

About three-quarters of the city's annual $76.7 million revenue-sharing allotment is used by the police department.

Marshall ruled Nov. 7 that the police department discriminated against blacks and women. U. S. District Court Judge John Lewis Smith in Washington, D. C. then ordered the withholding of funds pending Marshall's final order and the city promised to comply.

Mayor Richard Daley and Police Supt. James Rochford had no comment on the case, but acting Corporation Counsel William Quinlan Thursday filed an emergency appeal of Marshall's ruling with the 7th Circuit U. S. Court of Appeals.

POST-CHRISTMAS bargain hunters turned out in moderate numbers Thursday seeking reduced-price merchandise at Schaumburg's Woodfield Shopping Center and Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect.

After-Christmas crowds 'heavy,' but not a record

Post-Christmas bargain hunters flocked to two major Northwest suburban shopping centers Thursday, but not in record numbers.

Spokesmen at Schaumburg's Woodfield Shopping Center and Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect assessed the Dec. 26 crowd as "heavy," perhaps equal to a normal Saturday volume. But neither center was clotted with the throngs of shoppers observed last weekend.

More sales than refunds were reported at one of Randhurst's major stores, while activity at other stores ran "half and half".

MANY PEOPLE went to the stores to do their traditional day-after-Christmas gift exchanging — and believe it or not, some people came out to shopping centers and downtown stores just to browse or kill a day off.

As usual, Woodfield attracted a large number of out-of-town visitors.

George Knutsen, Ft. Wayne, Ind., who was at Woodfield for the first time, said he has never "seen anything as large."

Knutsen and Ken Moran, 1015 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, were "watching the kids" on Woodfield's lower level near J. C. Penney Co. while their wives shopped for "good half-price sales" elsewhere in the mall. Moran said he was surprised more shoppers were not out the day after Christmas.

ELEANOR TRAIN, of Flint, Mich., said she comes to Woodfield each year "looking for after-Christmas bargains". She was with her niece, Maureen Dolan, 400 Andrew Ln., Schaumburg, who works in Penney's men's accessories department. Miss Dolan said she was "amazed" there were not more people at Woodfield at noon Thursday. "I expected masses of people, like we had after Thanksgiving," she explained.

Bert Brunner, Freeport, Ill., came to look around, as did another man from Jackson, Mich., who was "shopping for clothes."

Chester Petersen, Elmwood Park, was at Woodfield "to see the sights and go a little nutty." Petersen said his wife wanted to take advantage of half-price sales and buy some odds and ends, like wrapping paper and cards for next year."

Lynn and Richard Perkins, 916 S. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, and 16-month-old Abby were looking "for the best buys" at Lord and Taylor, particularly "Christmas tree decorations."

PERKINS SAID THE Dec. 26 crowd appeared "about the same as Christmas Eve" when he came to shop for gifts for his wife and daughter. "Very different from the masses we saw here earlier," he remarked.

Lois Hertz, of Lord and Taylor's Prep Shop, said she couldn't believe how few people were shopping Thursday. "I expected it to be much, much worse," she said.

"Moody and impatient" is the way a saleswoman in Charles A. Stevens and Co. cosmetics department described shoppers. "Maybe they are a little let down today," observed the clerk.

Bike safety program plans to get rolling after Jan. 1

Elk Grove Park District and Elk Grove Township officials will get plans rolling after the first of the year on a bicycle safety program that has been under study for several months.

Jack Claes, park district director, said he plans to arrange a meeting early in January to form a steering committee to set up the program. The committee, Claes said, will be made up of representatives of the park district, township, village and Elk Grove Township Dist. 59.

The program, which will include construction of a permanent bike-riding training course, was designed last summer by the park district with a $1,000 grant from the township. This fall, the township auditors earmarked $10,000 to put the program into effect.

CLAES SAID WHILE it is too soon to say when the training course and other parts of the program will become reality, the January meeting will be the first step toward that goal.

The program calls for cooperation between the park district, township, village and Dist. 59. It will involve the use of the state school superintendent's bicycle safety lessons, designed to be included in the school curriculum in kindergarten through eighth grade.

The plan also includes a system for the inspection and licensing of bicycles, a bicycle court and the permanent training facility where a full-time coordinator would be available to teach children to ride bikes safely.

After the steering committee is formed next month, its first task will be to determine the cost of a training course and permanent licensing and educational facility, draw up a plan of action and seek a land donation and cost estimates.

The committee also will attempt to draw financial and other support from neighboring townships and from communities within the township.

Township to pay day care costs for single mothers

Maine Township has agreed to pay the Northwest Suburban Day Care Center $5,000 to provide care for the children of certain working mothers living in the township.

James J. Dowd, township supervisor, said the money will enable the center to offer care for preschool children whose mothers are the sole support of their families.

"This $5,000 will help us prevent a 'welfare cycle' from being established," Dowd said. "Consequently we can hold down public assistance expenditures."

"Even more important than the ultimate savings to the taxpayer is the opportunity these mothers will have to keep their dignity and pride as productive, wage-earning members of society," Dowd said.

The contract covering the "purchase of services" agreement will be signed within the next few weeks, Dowd said.

The Northwest Suburban Day Care Center, in the First Presbyterian Church, Howard and Maple streets, is open five days a week.

MOVING TOWARD an early summer completion, workers are putting the finishing touches on the senior citizens' apartment building at Lee and Ashland streets. The 129-unit building will offer economical rents to local residents who can qualify under the income requirement limits.

Anybody wanna lengthen the longest paperclip chain?

At least four Northwest suburbanites were not interested in shopping the post-Christmas sales or eating leftovers Thursday. They were busy breaking a world's record for the longest paperclip chain.

Doug Hill, 16, Arlington Heights; Ernie Schalk, 17, Mount Prospect; Jeff Pritchard, 16, Arlington Heights, and Candy Ross, 16, Elk Grove Village, began assembling the world's longest paperclip chain at The Flower Basket florist, Golf and Algonquin roads, where the three boys work. Jeri Ross, Candy's mother, owns the shop and sanctioned the project.

"We had nothing else to do," said Schalk, who said the group chose to make a paperclip chain because clips were available in the shop.

The Guinness Book of World Records lists no record for paperclip chains, but the group is "planning to make it as long as we have to so that no one can come close."

In order to do that, the group would like paperclip donations. "We need as many as we can get," said Schalk.

By 8 p.m. Thursday the team had 1,800 paperclips fastened together, each about 1¼ inch long, said Schalk, who added that there would be 3,000 clips on the chain before they stopped for the night.

Today, they'll continue.

Schalk said there is no telling where the whole thing will end.

Miss Browne was selected by the high school faculty on the basis of her dependability, service, leadership and patriotism. As a student at Maine North, she has served as sophomore and senior class presidents, junior class vice president and a member of the class council.

An honor student, she also has participated in pom pon and the gym leaders' program.

Christmas thieves take coin collection

Burglars spoiled the Christmas holiday for Lloyd Barton, 66, of 240 Bennet Ln., when they stole a coin collection valued at more than $400 from the house.

Des Plaines police said the burglary occurred between Christmas Eve night and Christmas evening while Barton was out of the house visiting his son. A basement window was broken and police believe that a hammer found on top of a dresser in an upstairs bedroom was used to break the window.

The burglars apparently rummaged through dresser drawers in the bedrooms, police said, but only the coin collection, four $20 travlers' checks and a key to a safety deposit box were reported missing.

Police said the burglars apparently left through the front door after turning on the front porch light.

Historical Society seeks items for museum exhibits

The Des Plaines Historical Society needs items manufactured and distributed in Des Plaines for use in a special exhibit the historical society museum is planning.

Items such as small boxes, bottles and packets marked "Made In Des Plaines" are being sought. The museum will accept the items as a donation, which can be deducted from 1974 federal income tax if donated before Dec. 31, purchase the items or accept them on a short-term loan.

For more information call the museum, 297-4912.

The museum will sponsor an orientation meeting Jan. 21 for persons interested in becoming museum guides. The session will be at 11 a.m. in the museum meeting room, 777 Lee St.

Museum guides will be present to explain the program and two films will be shown.

The guide-training program lasts six weeks with meetings one day each week during the training session. After completing their training, guides will be assigned days during which they will conduct tours for school, scout and other groups through the museum.

Subjects covered in the training program include regional and local history, history of the historical society and classes on how to interpret the exhibits in the museum.

Candidates reflect apathy
Club participation needed

Once again, Hersey High School has completed another year's Homecoming nominations, this time with a lot of hassle, misunderstanding and . . . . . apathy.

Much of the hassles and misunderstandings could be solved by a clarification of the nomination rules for the clubs eligible. Some of the clubs that were eligible didn't even realize that they were.

Many of the clubs were confused as to what the rules pertaining to turning in a nomination were. All of the above could be solved by a note in the sponsors' or clubs' mailbox.

But even these measures still won't cure an apathetic student body. There are roughly fifty clubs in Hersey, yet less than half bothered to turn in a nomination, and a lot waited until the very last minute.

We're sure that there are at least ten people who are as qualified, or more so, then the people there. They probably don't realize who they are, but it's the student body's commitment to seek them out.

But this, of course, is for a true service court, one Hersey hasn't had for quite a while.

If students would take the time to look around in ALL facets of the school and discover it

High school papers face many problems: foundation

by WANDALYN RICE

Although they often are unappreciated by school administrators, teachers and even their fellow students, high school newspaper editors in the Northwest suburbs daily are coping with the problems facing editors everywhere — censorship, angry readers and worried publishers.

The papers by and large have moved away from the stereotyped "house-organ" type newspaper that never discusses anything more controversial than school spirit. Instead, student newspapers delve into such topics as rape, vasectomy and teacher salary negotiations and occasionally use "dirty words" in their news columns.

Student reporters and the teachers who serve as newspaper advisers say high school papers in the Northwest suburbs have escaped the kind of direct censorship that has plagued other student newspapers around the nation.

Many look at "Captive Voices," a national study of high school journalism sponsored by the Robert F. Kennedy Foundation that found widespread censorship, and say, "We're really lucky. That doesn't apply here."

THAT DOESN'T MEAN that working on a student newspaper and writing about unpopular topics is easy.

In High School Dist. 211 schools, student journalists work on the paper as an after-school activity, receiving no class credit and "hardly a kind word," says Florence Salzer, adviser to the Palatine High School Cutlass.

Even when students do receive class credit for putting out the newspaper, they take more criticism than almost any other student in the school, advisers say.

ROBERT WILFERD, adviser to the Hersey High School Correspondent, says, "The students are sometimes unjustly criticized by teachers. I've asked some of my fellow teachers to their face how they would feel if I walked into one of their classes and criticized their students' work the way some of them criticize the newspaper staff."

The criticism can come from many sources. Wilferd's paper has drawn the wrath of Donald Caneva, director of the Hersey band, and staffs of other papers report that their school administrations are sometimes upset by what they write.

IT ISN'T JUST administrators who challenge young journalists, says Judy Bentley, adviser to the Elk Grove High School Guardian.

Recently, Mrs. Bentley says, a student reporter took a letter-to-the-editor criticizing the cafeteria food to the head of the school's cafeteria to ask her to respond. The cafeteria director "confiscated the letter," Mrs. Bentley says.

Student raps censorship

Goodall compares h

"And she tried her best to persuade me not to run the letter."

The incident, Mrs. Bentley says, points out one of the problems facing student reporters constantly. "As a reporter, you have to go into an interview as an equal — but these kids are also going in as students. A reporter might not have let someone take that letter away from her, but a student can't just grab it back," Mrs. Bentley says. "That is the kind of situation where the adviser comes in."

Advisers usually find they need a thick skin to cope with criticism their papers draw from faculty members. Rosemary Herringer says for the first two years she advised the Fremd High School paper, The Viking Logue, "I think I cried after every issue came out because of Student papers' rights protected

Court cases in Iowa, Indiana, New York, Massachusetts and other states have established that student newspapers have the right to freedom of the press as guaranteed under the First Amendment unless what they print is obscene, libelous or "creates a clear and present danger of immediate material and substantial physical disruption to the school."

A landmark case in the late 1960s was the case Tinker vs. the Des Moines Independent School District in which the U. S. Supreme Court held that students "may not be confined to the expression of those sentiments that are officially approved." Since then, the Tinker case has been applied by federal courts to cover questions involving the freedom of student newspapers.

Several lower federal courts also have said school districts cannot censor a newspaper simply because they supply money to support the papers. A federal judge in Massachusetts in Antonelli vs. Hammond said, "The state is not necessarily the unrestrained master of what it creates and fosters. Thus in cases concerning school supported publications or the use of school facilities, the courts have refused to recognize as permissible any regulataion infringing on free speech when not related to the maintenance of order and discipline."

Courts also have said censorship is illegal if something is merely "unpleasant," in "bad taste" or controversial. A federal court in New York found that a student publication could not be censored because of a story containing four-letter words because the story did not violate the Supreme Court standards for determining obscenity.

The study "Captive Voices," in a chapter outlining the rights of student reporters, does note, however, "While the use of most language that school officials will label obscene is not illegal, dirty words often are unnecessary and students will save themselves a great many problems by substituting other language. A battle in the courts usually is a long one and the time delay, expense and energy necessary to mount such a suit may not be worth the use of this type of language."

the criticism. Then I decided I couldn't live that way." The strongest criticism, she says, "comes from faculty members — they all want to redo things in the paper their own way."

STUDENT EDITORS ALSO complain that their readers aren't interested in some of the news stories reporters find most interesting. "The kids want record reviews and sports in the paper and that's all," Elida Witthoeft, editor of the Arlington High School Cardinal, says. "And they want us to stick strictly within the four walls of the school with what we cover."

Mary Levandowski, editor of the Elk Grove Guardian, agrees. A recent full-page spread discussing the rape issue drew complaints from student readers, she says, because students said it had nothing to do with school. "We voted this year against doing stories on national issues," Miss Levandowski says. "Last year we had a story on the meat shortage and the kids didn't like it.

"One of our biggest criticisms is that we are always so negative and don't write anything good," she says. "A lot of people didn't like the story about the law on open student files (a new federal law) because of that."

Rape: the most damaging of crimes to women

FBI statistics:
1972 46,431 reported rapes
1973 46,570 reported rapes
Eighty-five out of every 100,000 female residents of major cities are raped. Seventy-five percent of all sexual attacks are not reported. The Gallup Poll shows rape is currently on the rise by an average of 17 percent across the entire country
11 percent in the cities
15 percent in rural areas
25 percent in the suburbs

A DARK and deserted parking lot such as this could possibly be the scene of a rape.

A man rapes a woman because he wants "revenge for any sexual humiliation he feels he may have suffered ... or to act out masturbatory fantasies," stated the psychoanalyst.

A rapist may hate women, and rape is an action that forces punishment on a woman, said the Addison detective.

Generalizing, the detective said most rape victims are under the age of 35, although there have been rape cases when the woman is 70 and 80 years old. The rapist is usually between the ages of 16 and 40, the detective added.

A man who rapes a younger child fears women ... and is afraid of sexual failure ... a young man who rapes an older woman is sick," stated the detective.

"Rape is a violent act, not a sexual act," Ms. Eubel stated. "A rapist thinks rape proves he has masculine mystique," she said sarcastically.

Ms. Eubel explained that 30 percent of the women raped are sexually assaulted by more than one

Most women are raped in their cars, in their apartments, and while hitchhiking, stated the Addison detective who has handled rape cases in the past seven years.

"More girls are hitchhiking today ... probably because of Women's Lib," he added.

Ms. Eubel explained that married women with small children whose husbands are at work during the day are raped in their own homes. A rapist poses as a repairman and gets an easy invitation into the suburban house, she explained.

Aftermath of rape: the emo... frustration a wom...

WHILE STUDENTS AND TEACHERS are resisting pressure from sources outside the paper, most advisors admit they also are potential sources of censorship.

"I do not ask to read anything before it goes into the paper — I simply refuse to censor the paper or let anyone else censor it," Wilferd says. He draws a distinction between being a newspaper adviser and being a sponsor. "I'm an adviser," he says. "When the students need advice, they come to me and I advise them."

Other advisers read all copy that goes into the paper, to correct grammar and spelling and for other reasons. Mrs. Bentley says she reads all stories prepared for the Guardian and sometimes will give them back to reporters. "The thing that makes me feel the most insecure are opinions that aren't well-written," she says. "However, I tend to be politically more conservative than my students and we print a lot of things I don't agree with."

Miss Levandowski agrees that Mrs. Bentley "doesn't censor us as long as our facts are straight." However, she adds, "Mrs. Bentley is a little Victorian sometimes — and she does censor words like 'damn.' "

OTHER NEWSPAPERS take a different approach to the dirty-word issue. The Arlington Cardinal recently ran a letter to the editor protesting that it had used dashes instead of one offensive word — and ran the word without dashes. In the same issue, the Cardinal ran a student drawn cartoon with an offensive bit of graffiti in it. Also recently, the Correspondent, in a satirical article on former President Nixon, used "goddamn." Both The Cardinal and The Correspondent found that the words drew the attention of the High School Dist. 214 administration.

In both cases, memos on the "gutter language" in the papers were sent to the assistant principals at the school by Roderick McLennan, assistant superintendent for instruction.

McLennan says his memos are "not censorship," but says he believes student newspapers should follow community standards of good taste. He says his reference to "some censorship" refers to "what students might think of as censorship. I'm saying I think there are some things the newspaper sponsor should say should not appear in the student paper.

"I think the total community would vote that certain words should not appear in student newspapers because certain people might find them offensive," he says. "I think the students have the right to write a good many things — but I think the sponsors of the papers have the right to say that certain things should not be in the paper."

McLennan said he does not see direct censorship on the horizon for newspapers in Dist. 214. "I would be opposed to whatever we'd have to do that would cause every word to be looked at and censored," he says. "What I'm doing is assuming a tone that is required and appropriate for a person in my position."

OTHER SCHOOL administrators in Dist. 214 and elsewhere in the Northwest suburbs say they have avoided censoring school papers, but not without wishing that they could.

"I've been tempted to censor," Bruno Waara, principal of Arlington High School, says. "But I have avoided censorship because I think it's an experience that is more realistic if the sponsors and editors take the guff from their readers. Of course, the readers don't always go to the newspaper. They come to my office."

For newspaper advisers, the question of direct administration censorship is simpler.

"If anyone told me they had to see our proof sheets before they went to the printer, then I'd have to quit," Mrs. Salzer says.

And Wilferd says if direct censorship ever was brought against The Correspondent, "I wouldn't quit. I'd take them to court."

Unearned income deducted

I thought a person who is 65 or older and in need of financial assistance could receive $140 a month under the new federal program called Supplemental Security Income. My grandmother is living with our family in Arlington Heights. She is 83 and has no income or resources. Why did she receive only $93.34 instead of $140?

When a person lives in the household of another, the items of support and maintenance furnished in cash or kind is considered unearned income. Instead of counting the dollar value of room and board provided, the law provides that the basic amount is reduced by one-third. Therefore, payment in this case could not exceed $93.34. Watch the pin develop

Pin becomes bind

Shelby Lyman on chess

'Pins' that are tough to break

Tactics often are seen as exhibitions of brilliance, magic and invention. But they are as basic to chess itself as controversy is to Bobby Fischer.

For example, pins and pinning combinations are the natural expression of the long-range pieces (the queen, rooks and bishops) along the various "straights" (verticals, horizontals and diagonals).

Wherever there are pieces placed in a line, both players should be on the alert. A tactical outburst may be germinating.

But pins probably are the most frequently occurring straight-line tactical motif. And pins often are deadly in their effects. A pinned piece is a natural target. The concentration of forces on it can destroy the defender's position.

THE PROBLEM is that pins often are very difficult to break. An effective pin can paralyze a position, until either the position or the pin is terminated.

In the last U.S. Open Championship, 14-year-old Michael Rohde showed his tactical savvy when he sacrificed a knight for a powerful pin in the following position. (Diagram 1)

Here, after Strenzwilk's 1 . . . P-KN4, Rohde played 2. NxP! After . . . PxN; 3. BxP, the murderous pin is in effect.

There is no effective way for black to break the pin or counter white's coming onslaught on the black knight.

Diagram 2 shows the inevitable result. Rohde has brought his rook to KB3, where it attacks the victimized knight, and Strenzwilk has defended with his own rook. (The actual moves were 3 . . . K-N2; 4. R-K3, R-R1; 5. R-B3, R-R3.)

Black obviously has been forced to offer a rook for a bishop in an attempt to save the knight. But Rohde played 6. BxR check, KxB; 7. Q-Q2 check, K-N2; 8. Q-N5 check, K-B1; 9. RxN, Q-K1; 10. R-R6 and black resigned. Not only is he behind in material but the threat 11. R-R8 mate is too much.

A MORE SUBTLE pin and one without sacrifice develops from Diagram 3 (Thornally vs. U.S. Open Champion Hort). Thornally (white) decides in this position to retreat his attack bishop to K1 (probably better was P-QN4).

After 1. K-B1, R-R8 (the pin); 2. K-N1 (. . . B-N5 was threatened) P-K6!; 3. K-B1 (not 3. RxP because of . . . B-B4), P-Q5; 4. P-N3, B-N5, white is in a terrible bind. (Diagram 4)

Thornally labored futilely for several more moves but finally succumbed after 5. B-N2, N-N5; 6. B-B3, RxB check; 7. RxR, NxP check; and resigns.

In both the above games, the pins were so strong that they had to result in winning conclusions after correct play.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Low heart play is important

South must put up dummy's queen of spades at trick one. It is not going to do him any good if held back. It doesn't do him any good when he plays it, but it might have. Now South ducks two spades but has to win the third one and it is up to him to try for nine tricks. He has seven quick ones and the best place to get two more is in the heart suit. If he can get them he will have three hearts, four diamonds and the two black aces.

It also is easy enough to get them if he starts by leading a low heart and going up with dummy's 10. East takes his queen and can do nothing better than return a diamond.

South cashes four diamonds and now we see why it was up to him to have led a low heart the first time.

He leads the nine and plays dummy's eight if West plays low. This leaves him in his own hand to lead a third heart through West's king.

What would have happened if East had held back his queen of hearts the first time the suit was played? South would have run off four diamond tricks and it would have been impossible for West to find three discards that would keep South from finding his ninth trick some way or other.

'CIA spied on Pueblo investigators'

The Rev. Paul D. Lindstrom of Prospect Heights charged Thursday that his "Remember the Pueblo" POW-MIA organization was under Central Intelligence Agency surveillance in 1971 and 1972, and that the CIA has evidence of prisoners being held in Red China.

Lindstrom said, "I protest today, even as I did in 1972, the use of the CIA for domestic spying. We know that our mail was opened, our phone was tapped and I was under constant surveillance every time I left the parsonage."

Lindstrom is executive director of the Christian Defense League and head of the Christian Liberty Academy in Prospect Heights.

HE BASED his charges on letters received in 1971 from two former government employes who were associated with his committee's prisoner-information activities. "I am willing to make these letters available, and to testify concerning harassment by the CIA, if there is a Congressional investigation," Lindstrom said.

He quoted parts of the letters, one dated Aug. 2, 1971, in which the writer said, "It is of utmost importance that you know that within your organization, probably a secretary or such, are planted CIA agents. Your organization is well-covered, although there has been no move to stop the growth of it."

The second letter informed Lindstrom that the writer was being warned by CIA agents to avoid activity with Lindstrom's committee. The writer was a former CIA agent who had helped him from 1971-73, Lindstrom said.

Clifford urges probe of CIA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Defense Sec. Clark M. Clifford, who helped draft legislation creating the CIA, urged Thursday that Congress form a joint House-Senate committee to investigate alleged domestic spying by the agency.

"The time has come for a thorough, in-depth investigation of the Central Intelligence Agency," Clifford said. He said such an investigation could strengthen, not decimate, the intelligence agency.

He was critical of plans by five congressional committees to hold separate investigations of the CIA's alleged domestic abuses after Congress reconvenes next month. He suggested that five inquiries would lead only to a "diffuse investigation."

LINDSTROM'S CHALLENGES come during a period of attention to CIA domestic activities and follow a vow by President Ford that the CIA will not be used to spy on American citizens.

"The time has come for Congress to expose these illegal spying activities, and to investigate the relationship of both Nixon and Kissinger in these matters. Certainly Kissinger must have known what the CIA was doing in these domestic areas," Lindstrom said.

He says he exposed illegal CIA activities in 1972, but received little attention. His new attack includes a charge that the CIA was authorized to send armed reconnaissance teams into Red China to investigate the possibility that POWs are being held there.

Quoting a former CIA agent, Lindstrom said, "The CIA source pinpointed the staging area for the teams at a small mountain valley airstrip called Nam Lieu. There were three teams consisting of about 15 men each, most of whom were Yao hill tribesmen.

"They were equipped with American small arms, a sensitive four-pound radio with a range of 300 miles, and other special equipment," he said.

Lindstrom said the teams were flown by the Royal Lao Air Force in October to a sod airstrip near the Mekong River, where they crossed the river into Burma on rubber rafts. From there they entered China, Lindstrom said.

"The results of the two-month mission, I was informed, confirm the fact that some personnel presently listed by the Pentagon as 'missing-in-action' are in reality POWs being held in south China," he said.

"Our source also informed me that during Mr. Kissinger's recent trip to China the results of the CIA investigation were discussed with Red Chinese leaders. The outcome of these discussions is unknown," Lindstrom said.

Stock market gains slightly; trading slow

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, struggling to ignite a year-end rally, closed higher Thursday in the slowest full-day trading on the New York Stock Exchange in more than two weeks.

The turnover of 11,810,000 shares was the slowest since 12,887,130 were traded Dec. 2. Volume Tuesday, when the market closed two hours early, totaled 9,540,000 shares. The NYSE was closed Christmas Day and many investors appeared to be taking an extended holiday.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 8.76-point gainer Tuesday, climbed another 6.34 to 604.74, giving it a 15.10-point gain in the past two sessions. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 0.56 to 67.44. The average price of a NYSE common share increased by 20 cents. Advances topped declines, 841 to 496, among the 1,812 issues crossing the tape.

Ralph Acampora, analyst for Harris, Upham, said in 18 of the past 21 years, the market has rallied in the last week of the year. "It looks like the phenomenon is with us again this year," he said.

The volume may have been slow, he and other analysts said, because investors were waiting for a Federal Reserve Board report, released after the market closed. It showed loan demands at New York's 12 leading banks amounted to $241 million in the latest reporting week, down from the $327 million in the previous period.

Oils, oil-related issues, blue chips and glamors paced the advance, partly because of short-covering — replacing borrowed shares sold earlier — and portfolio adjustments for the new year. "There usually is some money around at this time of year," one analyst said.

On the Chicago Board Options Exchange, 20,325 contracts were traded, compared with 14,902 in Tuesday's abbreviated session.

One way to ease schools' plight

School officials in Mount Prospect Dist. 57, River Trails Dist. 26 and Prospect Heights Dist. 23 should get together to find a creative solution to the problems of stable and declining enrollments.

The solution may well be to combine the three districts into one district which would have about 7,500 students.

This possible solution presents itself when one looks at the current controversy which surrounds Dist. 57's proposal to close Gregory School, which is on the northern edge of the district. There is an area near Gregory, in Dist. 26 where students are being bused to Bond School, some distance away. A resident of Dist. 26 recently asked, very reasonably, why those students could not go to Gregory.

In addition, Dist. 26 officials recently discussed the possibility of renting Gregory School from Dist. 57 if it is closed and using it to house the district's sixth graders. At that time, there was some discussion that the district might be better served if it built its own additions to buildings, rather than renting from Dist. 57.

These discussions approach the problem caused by a general leveling off in enrollments in most districts and a rapid decline in enrollment in Dist. 57 in a piecemeal fashion. A look at the map of the three districts shows a certain logic in combining the three and then assigning students to schools without regard to the present district boundaries.

Consolidating the three districts, which are the three smallest in the Northwest suburbs, is possible by law and would probably require both action by the local school boards and a referendum. Before such a step could be undertaken, of course, it would be necessary to know for sure what the effects on assessed valuation and tax rates would be in the area.

The studies to find out how feasible this apparently logical geographic move should be undertaken by the three boards. Consolidation would probably create some savings in efficiency, administrative costs and would, most importantly, let the districts combine their building resources to serve the students at the best advantage.

We realize the thought of combining districts is likely to upset some people — primarily because of tradition and the attachment to local school districts.

However, it is undeniable that Dist. 26, 57 and 23 are small — and that combining them would make them no larger than other districts in the area.

Combining the three districts merits careful study consideration. It is an option that ought to at least be open to the residents of the area.

Suburban refuge

To some, they are as important a suburban institution as the split-level home or the 9-to-5 job, for they provide a splendid opportunity to escape, at least briefly, from both.

They are the neighborhood bar or tavern, the institution which has somehow survived in the era of the basement rec room, the carry-out six-pack and the TV dinner.

Last week The Herald profiled Bill's Buffalo House in Buffalo Grove, just about the only tavern in that community and one of the hardy breed of suburban taverns which have endured since 1880 and into the modern age.

It's not unlike the handful of other taverns which dot the Northwest suburbs; those friendly, dark places where it's possible to get away from the pressures of your job, your wife and your kids and have a tall, cool beer to calm your frazzled nerves.

We suspect that neighborhood taverns have a long, rich life ahead of them, despite the occasional fits of outrage from reformers who are offended by the need for many of us to climb up onto a barstool and have a beer before going home.

So, long live Bill's Buffalo House, and others like it! As long as they survive, the suburbs will be a more pleasant place for those of us who like a drink at the end of the day.

Focus on corruption

How can the citizen determine the honesty of their officials? Do local officials always respond to the best interests of their constituents? What role does the press play in protecting the interests of the public? How do watchdog groups function to protect the public interest?

These other questions will be answered Friday, Jan. 10 during a special program, "Ferreting Out Corruption," sponsored by Harper College's Community Leadership Training Center.

Mary Schlott of Arlington Heights, an assistant attorney general in the environmental control division, will moderate the panel discussion to include Anton Valukas, deputy chief of special investigations for U.S. District Attorney; Virginia Hayter, village president of Hoffman Estates; William Mooney, Chicago Daily News reporter; and J. Terrence Brunner, executive director of the Better Government Assn.

The program begins at 7 p.m. in the Student Center and is open to the public without charge. It merits the attention and support of all suburbanites concerned with the quality of local government.

Won't hurt to look!

Vice President Rockefeller:

Softly with a big stick?

by HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter

"Now take care of that inflation, ya hear?" Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., called out as Nelson Rockefeller left the Senate chamber after his inauguration as vice president.

That appeal symbolized the great expectations many hold for Rockefeller to move into a vacuum and do something about the nation's pressing problems, particularly the economy.

"He will add a new dynamics to the situation," said one political observer.

But there is no doubt that Rockefeller will tread softly — at least at first — and move cautiously in a realm where he will be watched for a power play.

ALREADY THERE is some apprehension among President Ford's top aides that the Rockefeller organization may overshadow their White House operation.

Rockefeller seems aware of that.

"I want to be as quiet and as helpful as possible and only do that which is appropriate and useful to the President and to the people of the country," he told reporters.

Most vice presidents in the past have found themselves severely frustrated at their limited responsibilities.

They have served as the traveling emissaries for presidents, but often their diplomatic missions have been nebulous.

President Richard M. Nixon sent Vice President Spiro T. Agnew on several such global journeys. Afterwards Nixon barely accorded Agnew a half hour to hear his report.

LYNDON B. JOHNSON, who had once held the vaunted position of Senate Majority Leader and was one of the most powerful ever to bear that title, never hid his frustration as the second man in the Kennedy Administration.

Although he got along with JFK, he had to fight the feeling that Kennedy's aides were trying to "dump him," which they were.

NELSON A. ROCKEFELLER

When Johnson selected Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., to be his running mate he told Humphrey: "You know you're only going to be a (expletive deleted) messenger boy around here!"

Humphrey was just that. He tied his loyalties so closely to Johnson that, when he ran in 1968 for president, he could not separate himself from LBJ's war policies.

Nixon, too, knew what it was to serve as vice president. He spent eight years in that post under Dwight D. Eisenhower. During the 1960 presidential race Eisenhower, asked what contributions Nixon had made, devastated Nixon by telling a news conference: "If you give me a week, I'll think of something."

WHEN FDR DIED, then-Vice President Harry S Truman had not been brought into any of the top secret military policy planning. Secretary of War Henry Stimson even had to inform Truman there was such a thing as the atomic bomb.

Ford, on the other hand, has signaled his intention to make Rockefeller part of the inner circle in domestic planning.

There is no question the President can use some new voices. Even though a major shakeup of Ford's cabinet is expected in January, the President now gets much advice from Nixon holdovers — most of whom believe in minimum government interference in the dynamics of supply and demand.

Rockefeller brings into the highest level of government a rich background as a former undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare who helped set up that cabinet-level department in the Eisenhower era.

As a man who served three times as governor of New York, the new Vice President has a keen awareness of state and local problems.

ROCKEFELLER ALSO heads the Commission on Critical Choices for America, which has been studying national goals for the end of the century and afterwards.

Ford and Rockefeller come from entirely different backgrounds and their life-long interests have been different. But in recent years Rockefeller has moved closer to the moderate conservative point of view Ford always has held.

Because of his national prominence and his years in the political limelight, Rockefeller is not expected to be the ordinary run-of-the-mill vice president. He is a household word. No one has asked "Nelson who?"

It is expected that Ford will permit Rockefeller to inject new ideas sorely needed to give the administration a lift until 1976.

The lighter side

Diplomacy in trash cans

by DICK WEST

There used to be a callous little joke to the effect that people in under-developed nations subsisted by taking in each other's laundry.

Now we are rapidly nearing the point where people in over-developed nations will subsist by taking in each other's trash.

A few days ago it was revealed that Montgomery County, Md., was negotiating to have its trash shipped by rail to a dumping ground near Smith Township, Ohio.

Why would a Maryland community pay about $26,000 a day to haul trash more than 300 mile?

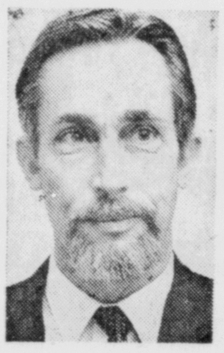

Information is hard to come by but a good guess is that all the Maryland dumping grounds are being filled up with trash from Ohio.

The reason information is hard to come by is because many areas are growing sensitive, not to say paranoid, about becoming receptacles for out of state trash.

Smith Township, for instance, has vowed to resist the importation of Maryland trash. Therefore, negotiations between the dumper and the dumpee are kept confidential when possible.

If crossing state lines to dump trash can cause this much tension, one wonders what will happen when international borders become involved. As surely they must.

Earlier this year, in a speech deploring Arab oil prices, President Ford took note of the fact that nations historically have gone to war over natural resources.

Dick West

It is more likely, however, that the next great world conflict will be a trash war.

Once a nation's own disposal areas overflow, it will be forced to send forth expeditions in search of new dumping grounds across the sea.

Future historians may record that the first such venture was the Rogers and Clark Expedition of 1979.

Under a grant from the Environmental Protection Agency, Marty Rogers and Sid Clark, intrepid owners of the Rogers-Clark Trash Co. of Sump City, N.J., set out on a round-the-world voyage and discover a new dumping ground in the Lesser Sunda Islands.

The United States promptly dispatches an expeditionary force of Marines to show the flag and protect American interest in the area.

Will the Soviet Union, with all of Siberia entirely under trash, sit by and see this prize fall into non-Communist hands uncontested? Not bloody likely.

Eyeball to eyeball, and knee deep in garbage, the two great powers are headed for a confrontation. Only the most adroit diplomacy can prevent it.

Speak softly but carry a big waste basket. (UPI)

What people are saying...

"Our airlines, our truckers, our railroads, our electronic media and countless others are on the dole . . . Our complex system of hidden regulatory subsidies make welfare fraud look like petty larceny."

—Lewis Engman, chairman of Federal Trade Commission, complaining that federal regulatory agencies set up to protect the public have driven up prices with regulations hindering competition and efficiency.

"We're going to have to change our lifestyles in this country if we're going to solve the energy problem. It was that very kind of thinking that cost me my job."

—Ousted Federal Energy Administrator John C. Sawhill from his testimony before a congressional interior subcommittee.

"Overwhelming support for voluntary prayer has been expressed in state referendums and resolutions in many state legislatures. As sponsor of legislation to reaffirm the right of voluntary prayer, I share the public's concern over this."

—Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., answering questions at a public rally.

Everybody's economizing but mayor, says reader

To Ed Duplessis:

I agree wholeheartedly, with your Fence Post statement, "Wake up, Mount Prospect." I, too, have been reading about the big plans our Mayor Teichert has for spending my money. Everybody is trying to economize at this time, but not our mayor.

We certainly do not need a new library as elaborate as they are planning. If more room is needed, why not build an addition to the north of the present library building. With our grade school enrollment on the decline and the talk of closing Gregory or one of our other schools, how can they justify building a new library?

There will be no referendums because Mayor Teichert and the board of trustees will do what they want, regardless of the people's vote. Reminds me of a few years ago, when the people voted against the junior high school, but our school board for Dist. 57 did what they wanted.

So you see, they will continue to spend our money, with or without our consent.

How many more liquor licenses are going to be approved? I believe we already have one too many. It's very disturbing to see the number of people staggering out of the taverns now. What will it be like in a few more years?

I'm afraid the people of our town will wake up after it is too late.

Mrs. John Mayer
Mount Prospect

Hit-and-run Scrooge

A few weeks ago our son came home from service. He bought an old, big car, not because it was what he wanted but because the Chevelles, etc., were too high in price for what he had saved.

On Saturday, Dec. 21, he was parked directly out from Sears restaurant at Woodfield. Someone tried to get out from behind him sometime between 2:30 and 3:00 p.m. He had put some gifts in the trunk and his car was fine. At 3:30 he came back and the entire right side was caved in. When he checked his gifts, one of them was broken from the impact.

To you who smashed the car, you could have left a note or at least your name and address. I hope your conscience is smarting, but then if you could pull such a rotten stunt you have no feeling.

If you want to call him, our phone number is 437-1373.

Grateful for help

In gratitude to our paramedics:

I would like to say a long overdue thank you to paramedics, Jim Heavey and Gary Claws of The Des Plaines Fire Department.

These two men came to my aid when I had to be transferred from a Des Plaines office to Lutheran General Hospital. I'm not exactly "a ninety-eight pound weakling" especially with a cast on each leg, so it was a difficult situation.

They did everything possible to move me as quickly and gently as they could, as my pain was severe.

I cannot praise the paramedic program in our communities enough.

May I again say a special "thank you" and God bless both of you and your families.

'Keep on their backs'

There's nothing that has depressed me this holiday season quite as much as the State of the Nation as reflected by the conduct of our Washington politicians during this time of depression, high prices, and unemployment. My feelings were best expressed by the editorial "A need for leadership" (Dec. 20). It's no wonder the people are confused and disheartened when not even their elected representatives seem able to agree on or even determine what the priorities are. I hope The Herald editorials keep on their backs.

Mount Prospect

The almanac

Today is Friday, Dec. 27, the 361st day of 1974 with four to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Capricorn.

Louis Pasteur, noted French bacteriologist, and actress Marlene Dietrich were born on this date . . . he in 1822 and she in 1904.

On this day in history:

• In 1941, Japanese war planes bombed Manila in the Philippines, despite the fact it had been declared an open city.

• In 1963, the U.S. Commerce Department authorized the sale of surplus wheat to Russia.

• In 1968, the Apollo 8 astronauts returned to earth after a trip around the moon 10 times, paving the way for later moon-landing missions.

• In 1972, Lester Pearson, former Canadian prime minister and Nobel Peace Prize winner, died at the age of 75.

A thought for today: British physicist John Tyndall said, "It is as fatal as it is cowardly to blink facts because they are not to our taste." (UPI)

Congressional wrapup

House backs bill to create 330,000 jobs

From Roll Call Report

Following is a summary of votes on key issues by the Illinois Congressional delegation for Dec. 12-18.

Included in the summary are votes by Illinois' two senators, Republican Charles H. Percy and Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, and Northwest suburban congressmen U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, and U.S. Rep. Samuel H. Young, R-10th.

House

JOBS: Passed, 346 to 58, a conference report on legislation to aid the unemployed. The bill authorizes $2.5 billion to create 330,000 public jobs by next June and launch major public works projects. Unemployment benefits also will be made available for the first time to about 12 million workers, including state and local government employes, domestic and farm workers.

The Senate also approved the conference report and legislation has been sent to President Ford. Supporters of the bill said predicted high levels of unemployment for 1975 require government assistance because jobs are lost in the fight against inflation.

Yes: Democrats Metcalfe, Murphy, Kluczynski, Collins, Rostenkowski, Yates, Annunzio, Price, Gray. Republicans Hanrahan, Derwinski, Collier, Young, McClory, Erlenborn, Anderson, Railsback, Findley, Madigan.

No: Republicans Crane, Ahrends, Michel.

Not Voting: Republican O'Brien. Democrat Shipley.

HIGHWAY ACT: Passed, 307 to 67, a series of amendments to the Federal Highway act. Amendments include continuation of the 55-m.p.h. speed limit, grants to encourage car pooling, stronger highway-beautification requirements and intensification of rural and urban road construction. The Senate earlier adopted the conference report and the House vote sent the bill to the President.

Included in the bill was a controversial provision allowing truck load weights to increase to 80,000 pounds from the present 73,000. Opponents said heavier trucks are a safety hazard and will damage highways. The House earlier rejected the increase but the higher limit was inserted by the House-Senate conferees without floor votes.

Yes: Democrats Metcalfe, Murphy, Kluczynski, Collins, Rostenkowski, Annunzio, Price, Gray. Republicans Hanrahan, Coier, Crane, McClory, Erlenborn, Ahrends, O'Brien, Michel, Madigan.

No: Republicans Young, Findley. Democrat Yates.

Not Voting: Republican Anderson. Democrat Shipley.

CIVIL RIGHTS: Passed, 224 to 136, language preserving the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare powers to collect data on race, sex, religion and national origin of students. HEW Sec. Caspar Weinberger said he could not enforce civil-rights laws without such data.

The vote reverses earlier House approval of the Holt amendment, which would have forbidden the HEW data-gathering. The language came from the Senate but the House accepted it because it wanted the bill sent to the President before adjournment.

Yes: Democrats Metcalfe, Murphy, Kluczynski, Collins, Rostenkowski, Yates, Price, Gray. Republicans Hanrahan, Collier, Young, McClory, Erlenborn, Anderson, O'Brien, Michel, Railsback, Findley.

No: Democrat Annunzio. Republicans Crane, Ahrends.

Not Voting: Democrat Shipley.

OIL SHIPMENT: Passed, 44 to 40, a bill requiring 30 per cent of oil imported to the United States to be carried in U.S. tankers. Current, unregulated level is about 5 per cent. The 30 per cent level could be waived by the President in emergencies.

The bill was opposed by the Administration and oil producers, but is supported by the shipping industry. Supporters said it could provide jobs for the American shipping industry and strengthen the U.S. balance-of-payments position. Sen. Stevenson said, "The United States should not be dependent on foreign tankers any more than on foreign oil producers."

Yes: Stevenson

No: Percy.

GIFT TAX: Rejected, by a 45 to 45 tie, an amendment that would have retained the present federal gift tax on political contributions of $3,000 or more. The amendment sought to strike a section of the parent bill that exempts all political contributions from the gift tax. The parent bill was subsequently passed and goes to conference with the House.

Because of the new federal campaign finance law limiting contributions to $1,000, the gift tax is a moot point on the federal level, but it would have applied to state and local contributions. Sen. Stevenson said the amendment, which he sponsored, is necessary because the federal tax discourages large, potentially corrupting contributions to state and local campaigns.

Yes: Stevenson, Percy.

Mikva names staffers for his offices

U.S. Rep.-elect Abner J. Mikva has announced a number of staff appointments for his 10th District and Washington, D.C., offices.

Mikva said Genie Ermoyan will be his administrative assistant in the Washington office. She has served as Mikva's assistant in the past and a director of the northern Illinois office for U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill.

Jacques DePuy will handle the post of legislative assistant. He has worked for U.S. Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., in a similar capacity.

Sandford D. Horwitt, formerly an assistant professor of speech at University of Illinois at Chicago Circle, will serve as Mikva's research director. Scott Baskin will be the legislative correspondent and Zoe Gratsis will be the executive assistant.

Jack Marco, Mikva's former campaign manager and the former director of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, will serve as Mikva's administrative assistant in the district office.

Gail Nebgen, 1422 Henry St., Des Plaines, will staff Mikva's Des Plaines office. She will concentrate on the areas of education, revenue sharing and housing.

Other local staffers will include Sarah Wolf, Greg Kinczewski, Wally Nathan and Jerry Esrig.

Mikva will open offices next year in Skokie, Chicago and Des Plaines in addition to his Washington office. A location for the Des Plaines office has not been selected.

Son's income doesn't count

I am 68, and the only income I have is my Social Security benefit of $94 a month. I was going to apply for Supplemental Security income payments, but a friend told me I probably can't get them because I have a son living across town who can afford to help support me. Is this true?

You may be eligible for monthly Supplemental Security Income payments, regardless of your son's income. You should call or write any Social Security office for information about applying for payments.

Offbeat side of '74

Despite all, a year for the funny bone

by TERRANCE ROSKIN

The great crises of the past year — shortages, wars, inflation, Watergate — were mirrored by thousands of little absurdities, often buried under columns of dire events, which gave the news of 1974 a distinctly offbeat flavor.

In the spring, for example, people began to air their frustrations in short bursts of streaking across the world's stage.

Alone or in teams, streakers bared themselves during the televised Academy Awards, on trains, in planes, waterskiing in Hong Kong and even sightseeing at St. Peter's Square in the Vatican.

Streaking never caught on in China, perhaps because Chinese youth are too busy singing one of the top popular songs there: "How I Love To Carry Fertilizer Up the Mountainside for the Commune."

AT THE OTHER end of the fertilizer business, cows in Atsugi, Japan, were fed newspapers as part of a government experiment seeking cheap hay substitutes. The cows continued to produce good milk and it seemed likely newspapers would be headed for greater ends than birdcage bottoms.

While the cows were busy digesting the news of the day, bulls in Madrid, Spain, were awaiting their first confrontation with women. Government officials there decreed an end to discriminatory laws which prevented women from killing bulls publicly. Thrice-gored Latin American bullfighter Angela Hernandez, who had fought for the right to fight in Spain, declared the sport "superbly suited for modern woman."

Economic pinches did nothing to improve the crime situation, except perhaps in Milan, Italy, where thieves loaded a truck with cartons of stolen loot, sped away and promptly ran out of gas.

An armed robber fared even worse in Miami when he jumped into what he thought was his getaway car — actually an unmarked patrol car which took him, and his getaway driver, to jail.

CROOKED MOXIE of the year honors, though, must go to the burglar who entered an empty courtroom in the Columbus, Ohio, police headquarters and slipped away with just about everything that wasn't nailed down — including the presiding judge's nameplate, which was.

But at least one lawbreaker saw the light. He wrote Canadian tax authorities: "I haven't been able to sleep since cheating on my income tax. I enclose a check for $500. If still unable to sleep, will send you the balance."

Shortages, real and imagined, were prominent in the news of the year. With high priced gasoline in short supply at the end of long gas lines, walking and bicycling took on greater appeal.

Drivers in Utah who chose not to take any unnecessary auto trips saved much more than gasoline. During a 30-day period early in 1974 there were no highway fatalities in the state, an unprecedented event.

DRINKERS IN Warsaw, Poland, were driven — into the moonshine business. With vodka rising in price by 23 per cent, sales dropped by one-fourth. Coincidentally, sugar and yeast sales began to boom.

Whether or not a shortage prompted his all-out effort to produce a four-and-one-quarter pound tomato is unknown, but an Eastport, England, man did reveal his technique: He said he put earphones around the jumbo tomato and played stereo music to it.

In Katmandu, Nepal, the government announced that worshippers could not sacrifice any more local animals during the Hindu festival to the goddess Durga Bhawani.

The number of sheep in Spokane, Wash., was reduced by eight this year when a pack of dogs jumped a 12-foot fence to attack and eat the experimental animals. The sheep were part of a state-funded study on ways to train coyotes not to eat sheep.

PERHAPS THE most notable shortage in the off-beat news-of-the-year was no shortage at all. Following a congressman's news release warning of a possible shortage of toilet paper, newscasters picked up the story.

Millions of Americans stripped tens of millions of rolls of toilet paper off the grocery shelves. In the end, the shortage was simply a rumor. Supplies were soon replenished and, it seems, the tissue issue is behind us.

And finally, to cheer any soul bearing even the smallest spark of vindictiveness the weather forecasters' annual picnic in Seattle was cancelled this year — due to rain.

As of December 31, 1974, any U.S. citizen may buy and sell gold for the first time in over 40 years. And it appears as though the great gold rush of '75 is on. The availability and attractiveness of gold as an investment is not all glitter, however. There are some cautions to which the consumer should be alerted:

1. The price of gold is like the price of stocks. Many people are enchanted by the fact that the price of gold soared from $35 an ounce in 1968 to $190 an ounce last November on the world market. This tends to overshadow the fact that the gold market can go down as well as up. The price of gold is set twice a day based on the London, England market. These price bases are commonly called the A.M. and P.M. "fix." Any day the price of gold can go up, stay the same or go down.

2. Gold has its middlemen. The miner, fabricator, distributor and retailer all add a price mark-up for his particular role in handling the gold. Don't be surprised at having to pay a premium for gold on the retail level as opposed to the price on the world market.

3. There is always the risk of forgery. Although gold experts feel the risk of forgery is somewhat less on gold bullion than on coins, the risk does exist. Consumers should always deal with reputable firms in buying and selling gold.

4. Clarify the buy-back arrangements. Some buy-back arrangements have certain requirements such as only buying back gold that is kept in storage at the place of purchase or buying back gold only if it is returned unopened in the original package.

5. Don't count on gold to be a hedge against inflation. No one can accurately predict whether or not gold is a hedge against inflation. For the last four years it has been; however, over the last 100 years gold has not been a good investment. Remember, too, that when you invest in gold it has no yield. To compensate for that, the price has to increase about 10% per year.

COME TO OUR FREE SEMINAR ON GOLD

While we support the decision allowing Americans to participate in gold, the opportunity has raised many questions and much confusion. For instance, at least five commodity exchanges across the country are prepared to handle gold futures. Many institutions including banks, department stores, currency dealers, brokerage firms and jewelers can sell gold to the consumer on a retail level.

Because of your interest and questions, the Plum Grove Bank is conducting a Seminar on Gold to be led by top investment advisers and gold specialists who will explain the pros and cons of gold as it affects the consumer. The seminar will be held at 7:30 P.M. on THURSDAY EVENING, JANUARY 9TH at the PLUM GROVE BANK, ROLLING MEADOWS, just east of Route 53 on Algonquin Road. Refreshments will be provided. There is no charge or obligation; you need not be a customer of our bank to attend.

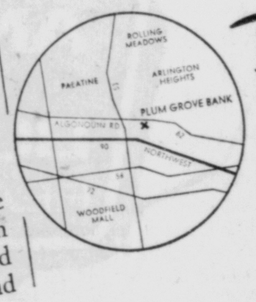

WIN FREE GOLD IN OUR "END OF THE RAINBOW" SWEEPSTAKES

As a salute to gold and our Plum Grove Bank, we are conducting an "END OF THE RAINBOW" Sweepstakes. Enter and you could win one of three ONE-OUNCE GOLD WAFERS (December 2 world market value was $186 an ounce!) Simply complete the coupon and deposit it or a facsimile thereof in the special SWEEPSTAKES box located in the Plum Grove Bank lobby or deposit it in our Plum Grove Bank night depository or at the drive-up window. Sorry, we cannot accept coupons by mail. Limit one coupon per person. Again, you need not be a customer of our bank to participate.

Each gold wafer is numbered and stamped with the refiner's own mark attesting to weight and fineness. It's your chance to find the gold at the end of the rainbow simply by "finding" the Plum Grove Bank!

Entry deadline is January 17, 1975, and the drawing will be conducted shortly thereafter under the auspices of our certified public accounting firm. Winners will be notified by mail and a list of winners posted in our bank lobby.

If you have any questions on the seminar or the chance to win free gold, please call us at 398-3700.

The subject is banking

Investigative reporter tackles the money men

by KAREN BLECHA

At least one thing is certain about "The Bankers": after reading it, you'll never cash another check without thinking first about where it's going.

Martin Mayer — a prolific reporter who's investigated Wall Street, Madison Avenue, the performing arts, television, law and education — has done it again. This time his subject is banking and in 545 pages (Weybright and Talley $15), he tells the reader all he ever wanted to know about banks but didn't know who to ask.

Money talks: we all know that. It is an accepted fact in American society. In this book, Mayer talks about money: what it means, how it is created, where it goes, who spends it, how the banks use it and abuse it.

"I decide who's going to succeed and who's going to fail" was the cocky retort of one lending officer.

MAYER TRAVELED thousands of miles, interviewed men and women from executives at the top to clerks at the bottom and read numerous financial reports to put together this January selection of the Book-Of-The-Month Club. He talks about a banking revolution, a revolution of the last 10 years when banks have changed from passive to aggressive, from caretakers of others' money to primary investors on their own. He tells how banks are in trouble and how they, as well as anyone or anything else, can be blamed for the current raging inflation.

The book is divided into sections: "Bankers and Money," an introduction and a history into money and banking that goes back to the Rennaissance; "Where the Money Comes From," "Where the Money Goes," how interest rates are set; "What Governments Do," about federal regulations on banking; "International Banking," "Trust Departments," how bankers invest other people's money; and finally, the conclusion, which he dismally calls "Living on the Edge of an Abyss."

THE READER WILL learn exactly how the checking system works as Mayer traces a $27.33 check he wrote to Jake Picozzi of Shelter Island, N.Y., for fuel oil and gasoline. Although the chapter is complicated, with careful reading it is possible to follow the check from machine to machine and computer to computer.

First Jake cashes the check at his bank, a branch of the Valley Stream Bank of Long Island. Next the check is sent to a larger branch, bundled with hundreds of other checks in a bag carried by a courier. The check then is sent to the head office of the Valley Stream Bank where it is put into the right pile for the Federal Reserve Bank of Manhattan where it arrives just before midnight. There it is read again by machine and eventually journeys to the New York City bank on which it was drawn. Finally, it is mailed to Mayer in his monthly bank statement.

THE READER WILL learn that a "lending officer is first of all a salesman; he sells money." (So next time you need a loan don't grovel; you're doing the bank a favor as long as you pay it back. He will discover that banks own property, sell money to each other to make a profit, but up a client's outstanding bills and then go out and collect them. Mayer tells how to start your own bank and interviews people who have. He does character sketches of some of the biggest bankers in modern times, including Gaylord Freeman of the powerful First National Bank of Chicago.

The book is a font of financial information. Did you know that:

- In 1974, nearly 40 cents of every dollar of gross earnings by American business went to pay interest?
- That banks share loans (no one bank could finance a fleet of tankers at $100 million per boat)?
- The numbers in the left bottom corner of your check not only signify your account number, but also the geographic location of the bank, its name and branch?
- That the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) works because it collects high premiums from member banks: $529 million in 1973
- That the Federal Reserve Bank computer can predict for one day, or the next four weeks, the flow of American money including into foreign accounts?
- That through the Federal Reserve system banks borrow from each other, overnight and every day, $25 billion?

The book has its shortcomings. In many places it is dry and dull, textbook-like and complicated. This is not a book you can read once or even twice. Three times and you may, if you are lucky absorb it all.

But the book is not without anecdotes, without humor. Mayer gives us an inside look at bankers as well as at banks. One example: the story of a banker who after 50 years of service was honored at a retirement dinner.

"Won't you think back in your career in banking," his boss told him. "Think about everything that happened and tell us what is the most important change that you have seen in banking in this half century of service."

The retiree paused for a few minutes, finally got up to the microphone and said, "Air conditioning."

LIKE A MAESTRO interpreting a musical composition, John Mosiman creates "Gypsy Dance," synchronizing his strokes and movements to the mood and rhythm of the opera, "Carmen." As he finishes, dancing figures around a campfire will glow in the rays of a red spotlight, then fluoresce in black light.

Kathy Grant Crosby finds new career in television

by ART McGINN

The wives of famous men often pay heavily for their status, but Kathryn Grant Crosby is too busy to notice.

Married at age 23 to singer Bing Crosby, 30 years her senior, the one-time Texas beauty constest winner (real name, Olive Grandstaff) had been first a newspaper columnist and then Kathryn Grant in the movies.

Since she became Mrs. Bing Crosby in 1957, she has reared three children into their teens, earned a nursing degree, a teaching degree, written a book, helped hold together a private college in Los Angeles, acted part-time in live theater and now has her own local television talk show.

The half-hour Kathryn Crosby Show started in late August and airs weekday mornings, aimed at the housewife.

GUESTS RANGE from movie stars to Gloria Steinhem to hair transplant experts to people who talk to their begonias. And even strippers such as Carol Doda.

The show wasn't her idea.

"They asked me — I hadn't thought about it," she said of the local Westinghouse station (KPIX). The offer came while she was playing small parts in live theater.

"I never really left working, never felt that I was really out of the business. I worked in summer stock and did any play I wanted to.

"Bing has always been very good to me about this. He's always wanted me to do the things that are important to me. I was offered a TV show in Los Angeles 10 years ago, but it would have been impossible to leave the family at that stage."

Bing is much happier with the new television career than the theater parts that often brought her home late at night.

"I USED TO wake him up when I got in around midnight, and he didn't like me driving alone at night," she said.

"We're both morning people, and the show is perfect for that. I work in the mornings."

Her show format is more interview than interplay. She has tended to stay in the background, trying to let the guest carry the ball. This is as it should be, she believes.

"It's a new thing for me, asking the right question at the right time. In a way I guess I approach a subject a little like an investigative journalist: I'm really interested and I want to know. But I hate to ask the piercing question. I really don't dig conflict. I want people to feel free to open up. I want to be the interested friend, to show I care. But I talk too much when I get nervous. Some viewers have complained about it.

"I STEW A lot over what I should have said or asked. It's hard for people to come on a show. There's no pay for it. The camera is like a truth serum. Barbara Walters says doing a TV show as a guest is really a terrible ordeal."

Kathryn Grant is the wife of a famous man. But, she said, "He's a very special man.

"He's as exciting as his fans think he is. He's the same off screen as on.

"Marriage is a one-to-one relationship and I think it has to stay that way. I think each couple has to work out their own arrangement. When we were married, he said, 'Of course, you can go on working' and he meant it. I suspect he thought I'd tire of it after a while but I didn't.

"We had a long courtship, four years. I think if it had gone only three years, I would have been more dependent. In the fourth year, I learned I could get by on my own and that was very important to me. I am very grateful.

KATHRYN GRANT CROSBY

"I AM FOR women's liberation, and grateful for those who stuck their necks out. I see it as an expression of the right of women to keep growing, even when they're married and mothers. The objective is to continue to use their intellects, without guilt.

"I think if women learn early that they can support themselves and can live by themselves, it'll be much healthier afterward. And they'll find more interesting husbands."

Does she feel any need to compete with Bing?

"There's nothing I could do that could threaten him," she said, laughing.

John Mosiman: his painting comes from the heart

by ELEANOR RIVES

One spectator called it "ballet on a pallette."

John Mosiman, Elgin artist, who has made thousands of appearances before clubs, schools, conventions, banquets and churches, entitles it "Musical Paintings."

More than music, more than art, Mosiman's program holds an audience enthralled. At his recent appearance at the Des Plaines Ladies of Elks Christmas dinner, one could hear a pin drop.

He dramatically combines stereophonic music, "painting" with colored chalks and theatrical lighting units that he manipulates to produce various moods in an almost dreamlike sequence.

His movements coincide with the rhythms and interpretations of such orchestral sound tracks as "Carmen," "Ben Hur," "Fiddler on the Roof," "Song of Norway," the Mormon Tabernacle Choir singing "This is My Country" and many more. Programs vary from Beethoven to Bacharach, from Handel to South American Indian music.

HIS SCENES ARE realistic — the vastness and grandeur of America's West; landscapes from Venice, Ecuador, Spain; a Midwestern farm scene; vistas of natural beauty he has encountered in his travels from coast to coast and in seven foreign countries.

Let's look in on Mosiman's Christmas program.

"I have my orchestra with me tonight in these two boxes," Mosiman chats with the audience, with modest reference to his new stereophonic speakers, part of the 200 pounds of equipment — easel, sound system and theatrical lighting units — he brings with him.

The only illumination in the room falls on the large canvas in the gold frame.

MATCHING HIS strokes and pace to the music, the lefthanded artist proceeds to depict the manger scene on a background already aswirl with muted color. Mosiman matches mood for mood, slashing in bold, dramatic lines to the beat, excitement building as the music crescendoes. The finished scene is viewed in quiet awe through a succession of lighting effects — now dim, now fiery, now fluorescent — to a musical background of "What Child is This?"

And so it is with the Wise Men following a star, then with the shepherds tending their flocks in the fields, ending with the stirring music of Handel's "Messiah."

House lights go up, the audience returns to reality to pop questions at Mosiman, who explains the more mundane aspects of how to use the vinyl-backed canvas over and over, how to make one's own chalk, how the lights are operated.

"Making chalk is easier than making a cake . . . all except black, I buy that," he says.

BACK IN 1952, John Mosiman, a student at Wheaton College, was drawing in the black ghettos on the south side of Chicago. Then, with art degree tucked under his arm, he took off for Ecuador to work with a missionary radio station.

"I was doing missionary work in a specialized way," he said. He was sent by the mission to give art programs in Peru, Bolivia, Colombia, Panama, Costa Rica. He presented them to a background of classical music.

Gradually he began moving with the music. When the mission got into television, John was responsible for all the art work, the title cards, the backdrops and a program of his own.

When he saw his own program on TV, he realized he was not identifying with the music nearly as much as he supposed. "From that time on I just let go," he said. "I really threw myself into it."

MISIMAN MET his wife, a nurse with the mission, at language school in Costa Rica where he was studying Spanish. They married, lived 10 years in Quito, Ecuador, then moved back to the states with their three children, settling in Algonquin (later in Elgin).

At that time, John's life was at crossroads, with three possible directions. He was a partner and craftsman in a small printing shop; he had returned to school, Northern Illinois University, to work on his master's degree; he could continue performing. Which route to go?

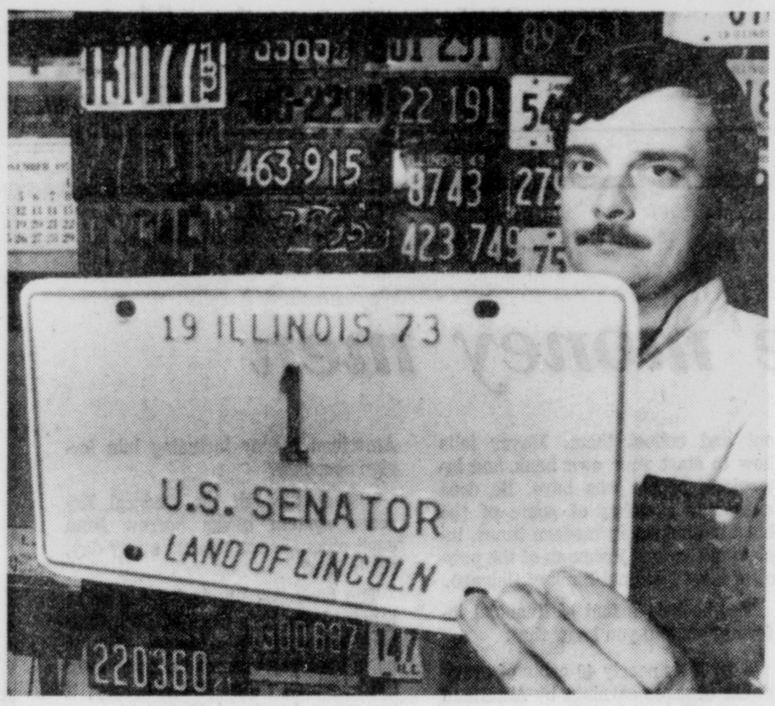

"I really liked performing best," he said.

He attained his master's degree, ended his print shop affiliation and began performing again. In the next few years his programs mushroomed from none to 250 a year.

SINCE THEN HE has performed in San Francisco, Las Vegas, Dallas, Miami, New York and a host of other places including numerous engagements in the northwest suburbs. He has appeared before approximately 200 organizations this past year, 25 of them schools. For the convenience of club program chairmen, he is listed in Paddock Publication's Program Directory. He may be reached at 695-7341.

His programs vary from 15 to 75 minutes. Some are light and gay, some serious and sedate. All involve weeks of preparation designing color sketches, lighting sequences, musical sound tracks, scripts and choreography. But more than this makes John Mosiman's performance exhilarating.

He summed it up simply. "I feel the pictures. They come from inside."

Collector of auto plates writes about his hobby

Collecting with Grace Carolyn

Some people save string, or tinfoil. I can barely force myself to throw away a coffee can. After all, you can always store cookies in them. If you make cookies. Speaking of making cookies, my daughter discovered my deep dark secret this season after all these years. She discovered the rolls of ready-mixed sugar cookie dough which I always use and decorate with stencils and icing, because they're cheaper to make and better than from scratch, at least my scratch. I think I shattered her faith in Santa Claus and mothers.

But back to the savers. In Rolling Meadows lives a fellow named Jim Vancy, a real estate man by trade and a license plate saver by hobby. I asked him to send me a few notes on his collection, and the notes were so interesting, I'll let them speak for themselves:

"1953 . . . I saved my first plate off my dad's car. Thereafter, every year I polished and put them back into the envelopes to preserve them. People would ask, 'Why are you saving those old things?' I never could give an answer. But I suppose if a few people never retained their plates in the teens and 20s, there would be no license plate hobby today.

"IN 1971 I ACQUIRED the name and address of a plate collector who informed me about ALPCA (Automobile License Plate Collectors' Association). That was the turning point — I realized I was not alone! Joining the club started me branching out, collecting plates from everywhere, asking people to save theirs for me. I wrote letters to congressmen, governors, fellow Realtors. Quite often someone would say, 'Oh, I just threw out some old plates in my grandpa's garage!'

"But that is the challenging aspect of this hobby. You drive your car and see them all around you, then at the end of the year, they are bent up and 'useless,' so they are thrown away.

"My collection now has approximately 3,000 plates, all types: passengers, trucks, samples, trailers, school bus, livery, DAV key rings, windshield stickers. Mainly I work on passenger plates issued from 1910 through the current year. Antiques shops and many friends send me their plates each year. That, and trading with other members are good sources. Low and unusual number combinations are in demand.

"I NEED ILLINOIS' 1911 and 1912 to complete my state run, and I also have Wisconsin 60 per cent complete. In pricing plates the older ones are more valuable, for total registrations were far less than now. For example, Illinois now has five million registered automobiles. Back in the middle '20s some states just reached the million mark. So scarcity and demand determine the value.

"The ALPCA was founded in 1954, with 1,000 present active members representing every state and many parts of Canada and Europe, dedicated to the promotion of collecting and research, the exchange of information and plates, as well as all fraternal benefits. Membership sues are $5, $8 or $11 per year, depending upon the type of mail service desired for the bimonthly newsletter, which is filled with pictures, editorials and ads. A national convention is held once a year, and two regional meets scheduled locally. The spring meet is held in the Chicago area and the fall meet, downstate. Awards are given at the national convention for the best displays, longest distance, etc.

"IF YOU'RE INTERESTED in plate collecting, attend a convention and you'll be hooked for life. They turn out to be family reunions! For information and membership application, contact me at 2201 George, Rolling Meadows, or call 392-6727."

The prize plate shown belonged to a U.S. Senator in 1973, and the number indicates Jim Vandy's opinion of license plate collectors: "We're No. 1!"

If you are interested in this unusual hobby, contact Jim, and tell him I said "thanks" for writing my column this week.

Harrisene Jackson tells what it's like to be a poor black

The book stall

"THERE'S NOTHING I OWN THAT I WANT"
by HARRISENE JACKSON
Prentice-Hall, $5.95

The furor over civil rights has died down and so far as the average American is concerned, the plight of the black people in the United States is "as good as it can be."

Little attention has been given to the life of the blacks growing up in the slums since the Freedom Rides, James Meridith and the Watts riots drew attention a decade ago.

Harrisene Jackson writes the other side of the story. From her childhood, when she watched as her mother's boyfriend shoved her off the fire escape of their slum dwelling and through her fight to survive, Miss Jackson's book is a testimony that the lives of poor blacks have changed little.

The ghetto comes alive as Harrisene recounts her experiences of being black, female and poor. Her early life as an orphan found her shifted from children's homes to relatives and then back to her long-lost father.

BOUND AND DETERMINED to, someday, leave the self-made prison she lived in, Harrisene never gave up, regardless if things never got much better.

Her first possible passage out was marriage to an Army lieutenant. Three children later, the situation became unbearable as "her John" neglected his "own" to get ahead. But Harrisene found strength in her children.

Her philosophy of motherhood never changes although the road is blocked by insurmountable obstacles. "I raise my children to be humanistic, to relate to human beings, normally and very sensitively, very giving and very loving, but I ain't raisin' 'em to be no patsies now."

She had a human spirit that couldn't be put down.

"There's Nothing That I Own That I Want" is a diary of one woman's fight for a better life. Although one dilemma after another plagues the young mother, she blames few except the fathers of ghetto children. In her words "black power lies in a black baby's full stomach." She blames the fact that 60 per cent of black homes are faherless for the dismal conditions.

NO FATHER means that Harrisene received $250 per month for child support, paid $180 for rent and was shifted, because of personal problems, to 17 jobs in eight years.

"There's Nothing That I Own That I Want" is startling. But, Harrisene had a story to tell and she has done that well. The dialect has been changed little and the language is a bit raw in places, but that's the way it was. Her book is about squalor, but it is also about love and togetherness of one woman and her family. This autobiography tells it like it is.

collection on the Russian-Polish War of 1919-1920. Yes, there was such a war and bibiophiles who somehow have missed catching up on this military venture deep in Eastern Europe now have this little volume to lean back on.

The 1919-1920 war between Poland and the Soviet Union was fought for Polish independence from Bolshevism. Caught up in the fight was a group of American fighter pilots who were recruited in Paris following the end of World War I.

The handful of men formed the Kosciuszko Squadron and flew old German airplanes against the Communist Cossacks. Written more as unit history than a work of popular history, "Flight of Eagles" will be read by only the most avid aviation buff or the most zealous Polish patriot.

STILL, THE PICTURES which emerge of the tiny band of Americans who flew for Poland are oddly fascinating.

In truth, men such as these are hard to find anymore. Merian C. Cooper, for example, quit the U.S. Naval Academy in 1915 to go fight Pancho Villa, then flew against the Germans before joining the Polish Air Force and later went to Hollywood to become a big time producer.

But these fascinating personalities are buried in the authors' insistence on relating each detail of the activities of the Polish-American squadron.

The prepublication price of $11.95 for "Flight of Eagles" includes two large poster paintings of World War I bi-planes.

The book is a perfect Christmas gift for anyone you know who is a Polish aviator over 60 years old.

Probable hit for Dave Ruffin

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

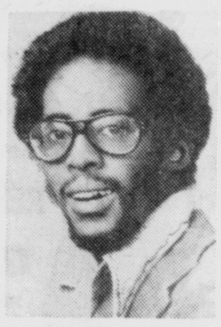

Two former members of the Temptations — Eddie Kendricks and David Ruffin — both have new albums out and, while I like the Ruffin album better, both are good albums.

Kendricks, who left the Temptations in 1970, certainly has been the more successful with his solo career. He has scored big in the past with such hits as "Boogie Down" and "Keep On Truckin'."

The new, fifth solo album is "For You" (Tamla records) and the title sets the mood of the album — very romantic, soft and relaxed. In fact, it is a bit too relaxed for my taste and most of the eight songs seem a bit too drawn out. The exceptions would be the very short covers of Jim Croce's "Time In a Bottle" (which is one of the album's highlights) and David Gate's "If" (the Bread hit).

THROUGHOUT THE album, Kendricks' singing — the tradition soul style of high falsetto — is fine. Co-producers Frank Wilson (one song) and Leonard Caston (four songs) favor their own material, but only two of their songs are at all memorable. There is "One Tear," which is Kendricks' new single and a ballad with a fine beat, and "Let Yourself Go," which is closest to Kendricks' previous successes and has an intriguing Mideastern flavor to its music.

David Ruffin

Ruffin's album, despite being produced by Norman Whitfield who has mishandled the Temptations of late, is a much tighter album than Kendricks'. The album takes its title, "Me 'n Rock 'n Roll Are Here To Stay" (Motown records), from a bouncy bit of funk which has heavy strings, horns and bass. It also is the better of two new songs by Whitfield, whose opening "I Saw You When You Met Her" is drawn out too much and is too affected, like Whitfield's work with the Temptations.

HOWEVER, RUFFIN does fine with two older Whitfield songs, "Smiling Faces Sometimes" and "Superstar (Remember How You Got Where You Are)," Dobie Gray's "City Stars" and the rockin' "I Just Want To Celebrate."

This is Ruffin's fourth album since he left the Temptations in 1968 and it is probably the best. It should become a big hit and reestablish Ruffin's excellent reputation as a soul/rock singer.

Carl Douglas recently had the country's No. 1 song in "Kung Fu Fighting," which was a delightful mix of Oriental sounds and soul funk. Now the song has spawned an album of the same name on 20th Century records and the album is every bit as good as the single.

DOUGLAS IS a Jamaican which accounts for the occasional reggae beat to the album. He wrote half of the album's eight songs, with producer Biddu writing most of the others. Douglas shows his voice is well suited for a number of styles, whether it is the straight soul of the slower numbers, the reggae or rock.

Some of the other good songs are "When You Got Love," "Dance the Kung Fu" and "I Don't Care What People Say."

A large dose of reggae also is found in a sampler of Jamaican music called "This Is Reggae Music" (Island records). The album features the original Wailers version of "I Shot the Sheriff" which was recently a big hit for Eric Clapton. Also of note are Jimmy Cliff singing "Hey Mr. Yesterday," Zap Pow singing the title song and Owen Gray singing "Guava Jelly." Women also sing to the reggae beat as Lorna Bennett illustrates on "Breakfast In Bed."

ACCORDING TO the liner notes, "Unlike the self-indulgent, cerebral music we hear so much of today, reggae is (like early rock and roll) sexual body music above all else. In Jamaica, the songs are a produce of discontented ghetto environment." Reggae has been winning a slow battle for recognition in the United States and England. This album amply demonstrates what it is all about.

Blues guitarist Freddie King has come up with his best album in some time with "Burglar" (RSO records). Solidly backed by a bunch of British session men, King turns out gems such as the instrumental "Pulp Wood," the James Brown influenced "My Credit Didn't Go Through," "Only Getting Second Best" and the oldie "Come On (Let the Good Times Roll)."

'Haunting of Hill House' tryouts set for Jan. 5, 6

Open readings for the seven roles in "The Haunting of Hill House," to be presented in March by Des Plaines Theatre Guild, will be held Jan. 5 and 6 at the Guild Playhouse in Des Plaines.

Directed by Ken MacCowan of Glenview, the drama by F. Andrew Leslie is based upon the novel by Shirley Jackson. The movie version of the thriller, titled "The Haunting," starred Claire Bloom, Julie Harris and Russ Tamblyn.

Four meaty women's roles ranging in age from late 20s to 60s are to be cast. These include Eleanor and Theodora (the parts played by Claire Bloom and Julie Harris in the movie version); Mrs. Dudley, the housekeeper; and Mrs. Montague, a large and overpowering character.

Men's roles include Luke Sanderson, a good looking early 30's-type; Dr. Montague, roly-poly and bearded; and Arthur Parker, a prep school headmaster of indeterminate age.

Auditions begin at 2 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 5, and at 8 p.m. Monday, Jan. 6. The Playhouse is at 620 Lee St. (U.S. 12-45 North at U.S. 14) in downtown Des Plaines. Interested persons can get further information at 296-1211 from noon to 8 p.m. daily except Sunday.

The Theatre Guild's production of "The Fantasticks" opens the weekend of Jan. 3 and continues every Friday and Saturday night through Jan. 25.

Mae West novel

Dell Books will publish next July Mae West's novel, "Pleasure Man," dealing with the vaudeville world when that form of entertainment was in vogue. In 1928, Miss West's play of that title opened on Broadway and was raided by the police, who arrested all concerned. It was reopened and reclosed. Miss West won a court verdict of "not basically an obscene performance."

'Good Doctor' another hit for Simon

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Neil Simon has done it again with "THE GOOD DOCTOR" a bill of short comedy vignettes, 11 altogether, that are currently being staged at the FORUM THEATRE in Summit.

Some are uproariously funny bordering on slapstick, others are pure farce and a couple are more touching and sentimental than funny. Yet all are most delightful and enjoyable in this, his 13th work.

The show's title refers to Anton Chekhov, a playwright of such well received dramatic pieces as "The Three Sisters" and "The Cherry Orchard" who was a practicing physician most of his life and wrote stories and plays merely as a pastime.

Simon has taken nine of Chekhov's short stories written in Russia during the 1880's and adapted them to the stage.

Adding his own prelude and postlude, Simon further cements together the separate stories with a narrator, a writer given the name of Anton who is played by Mike Nussbaum. He does a tremendous job not only in setting the mood for each playlet, but also participating in many of them. Nussbaum goes from being a charming seducer to a mad dentist to a spectator at a rehearsed drowning.

Redd Foxx

Also taking their turns appearing in the separate tales are Frank Galati, Nancy Leonard, Bob Thompson and Pat Fraser.

"The Good Doctor" is another prime example of Simon's talent for good comedy. And it's nice to know that Chekhov had a certain gift for humor too.

REDD FOXX opens tonight at MIL RUN THEATRE in a show that will continue through New Year's Eve. Joining Redd for five nights of adult entertainment will be singer VIC DAMONE.

A special New Year's Eve package is available Tuesday night only for $14 and $15, priced to include unlimited cocktails and champagne.

Singer KELLY GARRETT and comedienne DAPHNE DAVIS open in the Blue Max on New Year's Eve and will be featured through Jan. 11. The Blue Max will be closed New Year's Day.

The TAMI NOVAK AFFAIR and the SOUNDS OF MUSIC will appear at the PICKWICK HOUSE RESTAURANT and SHOW LOUNGE beginning Saturday night through New Year's Eve. Each of the groups will alternate on the bandstand of the show lounge from 9 p.m. until 4 a.m.

DON KNOTTS is opening New Year's Eve in the comedy "NORMAN IS THAT YOU?" at ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE. There will be two performances on that festive eve, 6 and 9:30. There will be no performance on New Year's Day. The show closes Jan. 19.

Chicago Tribune Charities' annual production of "THE NUTCRACKER" Ballet opened yesterday and will continue for 24 matinee and evening performances at Chicago's Arie Crown Theater through Jan. 4. Tkae the kids to see this one.

Not only does BRANDT'S (corner of Northwest Highway and Quentin Road in Palatine) serve one of the best hamburgers in the area; they also were stocked with plenty of Christmas cheer. Everyone who went there to grab a bite between finishing a shift on Christmas Eve, found it a bit easier to go back to work with a bottle of champagne in hand. That was the best hamburger I ever tasted.

'Magic Man' chance to escape reality

by GENIE CAMPBELL

"The Magic Man" at the First Chicago Center is just what the doctor ordered . . . a bit of illusion and enchantment to remind us, "There is more to life than meets the eye." And who doesn't occasionally like to escape reality? Even knowing that for each illusion there is a gimmick doesn't spoil a thing. You're seeing it right? And that's all that matters.

David Copperfield, the 18-year-old expert magician who plays Omar the Magnificent in this new comedy musical that reopens the intimate loop theater, not only has the unbelievable sleight-of-hand movements, but a remarkable stage presence that mesmerizes as well as awes his audience.

WHEN HE IS doing his work — and there are some remarkable feats including one levitation illusion — there is not one wandering eye in the audience. And not as mind boggling but every bit as sensational is the musical number where Copperfield dances around his magic wand without ever touching it.

The show in its entirety — drags in certain spots for lack of an exciting script, though it never becomes too boring because Copperfield is always on hand to smooth things over.

It's entertaining for both young and old alike, so don't forget to take the kids to this one.

The musical's set in downtown Chicago in the summer of 1913, and attention to detail in both costuming and set design give it an old-fashioned, vaudeville flavor.

COMPETITION DEVELOPS between Omar who, as an illusionist is not trying to trick, no the word is never used, but rather offer pure and imaginative entertainment, and John B. Jellison as Neville Braithwait, a mentalist who pretends to read minds.

Braithwait and his shrewd manager are in the process of convincing a highly regarded professor to invest in their show. Just in the nick of time Omar and the professor's skeptical daughter, played by Marcy Freedman, manage to expose the mentalist for the charletan he really is.

Though the characters show no real depth of character, the comedy unfolds like a melodrama. Jellison wears well his role of the villian who lies, cajoles and charms his way out of trouble.

David Rupprecht as Copperfield's Chinese helper and JoBe Cerny as Pinchbeck, the theater manager, add additional comical notes.

YET THE REAL substance to "The Magic Man" is the magic itself and yes, for this alone, I recommend seeing the show. Copperfield as an actor as well as a illusionist brings great warmth and understanding to his performance. And no expense has been spared for the props.

The combination of magic and theater is a good one though I'm afraid "The Magic Man" will not be the box office success the Chicago Center desires. I hope I'm wrong and more people really do believe in magic than I think.

Inflation may spell its end

Is big Broadway musical dead?

by FREDERICK M. WINSHIP

Inflation has put the big Broadway musical out of business, according to composer-lyricist Jerry Herman of "Mame" and "'Hello, Dolly!" fame.

"I'm glad I was here for part of the big musical era," Herman said as he began a year's leave-of-absence following the successful launching of his "Mack and Mabel" this season. The musical, based on the love affair of silent film director Mack Sennett and actress Mabel Normand, may be one of the last of a theatrical form perfected in the late 1930s.

"There will be nothing but small musicals on Broadway for at least the next five years — shows with casts of 20 or less and no chorus. You have to spend over $1 million now to produce a big show, so there's no way. The economic problem of the musical is wildly out of control. You just have to stop and say 'there must be some other way.' "

IF THE OTHER WAY is intimate chamber musicals, Herman is having nothing to do with them, at least for the moment.

"I won't fit in because right now I don't want to," he said in an interview in his Grenwich Village home, a converted carriage house previsouly owned by playwright Edward Albee and actor Maurice Evans. "I love the Broadway musical, as I know it, too much. I'd rather do a musical film that has some of the same values."

The slight 41-year-old native New Yorker, the only composer-lyricist ever to have three musicals on Broadway simultaneously (1969), admits he was disappointed in the Hollywood versions of "Dolly" and "Mame." The musicals were designed as "theatrical confections" and lost their stylization in realistic film translation, he said.

"I'd like to conceive a screen musical just for film as Bob Fosse conceived 'Cabaret,' " he said. "It wouldn't matter if it was an original plot or taken from a novel as long as the concept is right for the camera. I've talked about a few things with producers, but right now I just want a year's vacation."

HERMAN'S EARLY musical studies were encouraged by his singer-pianist mother. His career since he began writing high school theatricals has had only one deviation. He thought he might become an interior decorator and attended the Parsons School of Design for a year. But he changed his mind when a friend interested a publisher in one of his songs.

He wrote his first musical at the University of Miami, where he received a degree in drama. The success of three off-Broadway revues led to a Broadway flop, "Madame Aphrodite" and then to a smasheroo, "Milk and Honey," in 1961. "Dolly," "Mame," and "Dear World" followed.

Unlike musical comedy's only other stellar composer-lyricist, Stephan Sondheim, Herman has never collaborated with another composer or lyricist.

"I really am a song writer and think in terms of total song," he explained. "I've had invitations to collaborate, but I know I wouldn't be very successful. You know, it's nice to get along with your collaborator and I like mine."

HERMAN WORKS with a show's librettist from the very start, blocking out an outline of the show and discussing the meaning and tone of each scene. He indicates areas that will musicalize naturally, then goes off to develop his musical ideas and the librettist goes off to write.

"Then we put it together like a jigsaw puzzle," Herman said. "If I have a good musical idea, the librettist may work a scene around it and vice versa."

In writing "Mack and Mabel," he and librettist Michael Stewart worked from the end of the show backward because Mack Sennett, a sort of anti-hero, finally made a great sacrifice out of love for Mabel Normand. Flashbacks from this climax gave shape to the show.

"We were writing an original show — the play and the music at the same time — and this is more difficult than writing a 'Dolly' which was based on an established play ("The Matchmaker")," he said. "But writing an original is more challenging."

HERMAN BUILDS from the opening line of a lyric, but rarely gets very far before the music begins to come, and quickly. He loves interior rhyme (You're still growin', you're still crowin', you're still goin' strong) and alliteration in moderation ("Your beads and buckles, and bows").

"Simplicity is the key word," he said. "If I can remove something from the lyric I will. And hand work is another key word. I don't believe in waiting around for inspiration. If you function in this creative commercial art form, you must be able to turn it on at will — in an hour in a hotel room during out-of-town tryouts if necessary.

"I wrote 'When the Parade Passes By' for 'Dolly' in 45 minutes when the original first act closing didn't work. Inspiration wasn't there. I called on the tools I had in my head."

(United Press International)

COMPOSER-LYRICIST Jerry Herman launched his "Mack & Mabel" musical on Broadway this season, but sees the end of big musicals because of inflation. Bernadette Peters portrays Mabel Norman in the show.

Regular coffee filter only one to have FDA clearance

The homeline
by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Is there anything harmful in using white cleansing tissues as coffee filters? There are some good ones and they're cheap. — Hazel Hopkins

Some people have recommended this. Others have argued that the process used in making cleansing tissue made it harmful to use as a filter. You prompted a check with the American Paper Institute. While there is nothing harmful in using either cleansing tissues or paper towels as filters, the paper tends to fall apart because of the nature of wet coffee grounds. Why the Food and Drug Administration is into this I don't know, but only the regular coffee filter paper has an FDA clearance for this purpose.

Dear Dorothy: I have the answer for Mary Gambardella who wanted a low calorie gravy for her husband: Use a bouillon cube or the powdered seasoning. Just pour the hot water into a cup and stir in one envelop of this. In minutes, it's a hearty cup of soup and for gravy just add one or two teaspoons of cornstarch, depending on how thick you want the gravy. Good health. — Stephanie

Dear Dorothy: A dear friend often wears a long black skirt with a black, long-sleeve turtleneck sweater to evening parties. At the last party, she had on the same outfit but over it a lacy white crocheted vest. It was stunning. — Marilyn Coifman.

Howlett against license-fee increases for smaller cars

A state committee has recommended that auto license fees for small cars be increased to match the charge for larger cars, but Sec. of State Michael Howlett opposes the proposal.

The committee also recommended that the annual plate-replacement system be maintained until the cost of plates and distribution becomes excessive, at which time the state should use a two-year plate.

The advisory committee for motor vehicle registration and titling, appointed by Howlett, made a total of nine recommendations, including the fee increases.

George Kreeker, a spokesman for Howlett, said the fees probably will remain as they are — $30 for larger cars and $18 for smaller autos — for at least a few years. Kreeker said Howlett did not agree with that committee recommendation for a flat fee, partially because the present system encourages use of smaller cars and saves fuel.

THE COMMITTEE considered several alternatives to the annual two-plate licensing, but recommended continuation of the system. A recommendation to raise the $2 title transfer fee to $5 may be sent to the Illinois General Assembly, Kreeker said, because the committee found that the $2 charge doesn't cover the cost of handling.

The committee did propose the two-year plate if the cost of production and distribution of annual plates becomes excessive. Kreeker said the two-year plate might meet with objections because the fee for both years would have to be paid at the beginning of the first year.

Suggestions rejected by the committee included:

- Using only one plate, on the rear of the car.
- Designating plates with prefixes to indicate county or other local area.
- Changing registration to a staggered, year-round system.

The committee endorsed Howlett's new "regititle" form, which replaces 24 applications and combines title and registration information. The members also suggested that if a multi-year plate is used, a tamper-proof, large decal or sticker should be attached to each plate.

The staggered registration system would save money, as would the multiple-year plates, Howlett's office said, but law enforcement efficiency would suffer. Thirty-five states now use multi-year plates ranging from two to five years, and eight more states now using annual plates will switch for 1975.

ILLINOIS WILL be one of seven states maintaining the annual replacement system, and the committee said the practice insures that worn or illegible plates are regularly replaced and vehicle information is updated every year.

Howlett's office said only one other state, Missouri, now charges license fees based on auto horsepower. Other states use flat fees or base the charge on weight, age, seating capacity or price of the car.

Suggestions by the committee are being considered by Howlett, and he may make some recommendations to the General Assembly, which can change the process by amending the Motor Vehicle Code. Kreeker said changes may be slow in coming because Illinois has more than 5 million passenger cars and alterations to the registration system must be studied and prepared well in advance.

Howlett's committee consisted of Niles Police Chief Clarence I. Emrikson, Vermilion County Sheriff John W. Clark, State Police Supt. Dwight E. Pitman; Silver Suarez of the Illinois Local Governmental Law Enforcement Officers Training Board, and John E. Baerwald, director of the University of Illinois Highway Traffic Safety Center.

License-plate deadline again set for Feb. 15

The Dec. 31 deadline for display of 1975 auto license plates has been extended to Feb. 15 because of late distribution of the plates — again.

Although there have been several complaints of late mailing of plates this year, George Kreeker of Sec. of State Michael Howlett's office, said the department is ahead of last year.

Kreeker said Thursday that all plates were sent to the post office last Friday, with the exception of 20,000 special request numbers that still are being processed. He said the state received a record 100,000 special requests this year because of the new triple-letter prefixes, available for the first time on a large scale.

Kreeker added that all other states are being notified of the deadline extension, so motorists will not be stopped if they are traveling with 1974 plates on their cars. The deadline extension has become standard for the state during the past several years.

Religion today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

Those who hoax clergy

Some anonymous jester recently sent San Francisco's Catholic Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken a gift subscription to Playboy magazine.

A certificate notified the Archbishop that he was receiving Mr. Hefner's monthly — as a gift from Lester Kinsolving.

Whatever clown was responsible for this prank should know that (a) the Archbishop declined the gift—graciously, since he has a sense of humor, and (b) Kinsolving's thrift would never allow that kind of spending, and (c) as far as practical jokes on the cloth go, sending Playboy to prelates is, comparatively, bush-league practical jokery.

Take for example Philadelphia's "Phantom Counterfeiter," — who recurrently plagues Philadelphia's Archbishop John Cardinal Krol.

THIS PRACTICAL joker is more vicious than silly — for he regularly steals or reproduces the Cardinal's letterhead. With its engraving in bright red of the Cardinal's residence address as well as his official seal, this letterhead is so dazzling as to impress the recipient almost beyond caution.

This was my reaction last year when I received on this letterhead a message signed "John Cardinal Krol" — one passage of which looked like the religion story of the decade: "The church is older than the U.S. Government and wiser. I have been able to make a significant contribution to our nation by passing along to my dear friend and our beloved President the immeasurable value of mastering the art of surveillance and infiltration of dissident groups."

After rereading this astounding letter, I noted the date — April 1 — and telephoned the U.S. Catholic Conference in Washington. They investigated and promptly disclosed that the letter was a complete hoax.

THE "PHANTOM Counterfeiter" also has used the Cardinal's letterhead to invite publishers of Philadelphia's highly critical underground Catholic paper, "Substandard and Times," to join His Eminence on a flight to Poland. Reportedly this forger has not yet decided to use the Cardinal's letterhead to reassign all of the Philadelphia Archdiocese's leading pastors to obscure mission stations.

If he does, this action will be momentarily traumatic — but nothing in comparison to the experiences of the late Morgan Dix, rector of Trinity Church, Wall Street, in 1880.

"Gentleman Joe" was the pseudonym of a man named Fairfax Williamson, who had been dismissed from Trinity's Sunday School faculty for immorality, by order of another clergyman, years before Dix became Trinity's rector. Williamson was apparently a monumental letter writer. For within one week, Dr. Dix was confronted by the following who received letters sent in his name:

Salesman for: two horses, a toupee (Dix had ample hair), dancing lessons, Acme Safe, locks, stoves, kitchenware, organs (4), farm equipment (3), breakfast food, steam engines, old clothes (28), pawnbrokers (14), shoe dealers (40), a tattoo artist, four attorneys to advise Mrs. Dix about divorce, one physician to treat Dix for reported epilepsy and a whalebone corset salesman to equip the Sisters of St. Mary.

Postal authorities finally nabbed "Gentleman Joe," who was sentenced to three years in Sing Sing prison. There he died, perhaps justifiably, of ulcers.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Distilled water pro and con

What is your opinion of distilled water used for drinking regularly just as you would any water and using it for cooking as well? I have read in a book written by a doctor that it is good for arthritis, hardening of the arteries, kidney stones, gall stones, cataracts, glaucoma, loss of hearing, diabetes, obesity, emphysema, etc. Can it be possible that distilled water can do that much? This doctor says that the mixtures in city water supplies today are similar to rat poison.

It annoys me when I see the public being misinformed by grossly unscientific statements and even given information that can be harmful to their health. I don't know the qualifications of the person who wrote the book you describe, but I can tell you right now that if he says half of what you describe, he is not considered a reputable medical doctor by his colleagues. There are all kinds of doctors, and the title doesn't even mean the man is trained in the medical field. He could have a doctor's degree in chemistry, not medicine. He should have one in the art of shady practices.

Any time you see any medicine or cure advertised as a cure-all, hang on to your wallet. The quack cures sold or used in the treatment of arthritis alone is a multi-million-dollar business. In that long list you included there are only two that distilled water might help.

It might help to wash out minerals that are involved in kidney stone formation, and adequate amounts of any water to induce adequate urine formation will do as well. The other is obesity, if water is used instead of calories, which can also be accomplished by tap water. There is some evidence that the minerals in some water sources, specifically what is called hard water, help to decrease the likelihood of having heart attacks — by a very small amount.

There is nothing wrong with distilled water. It makes good coffee and tea in localities where the available water has an undesirable flavor. However, since it contains no chlorine or chemicals to destroy bacteria, it will become contaminated with germs and can become harmful if not kept under sterile conditions. Boiling it will solve this problem, as you would do in making tea or coffee. For safety is should be boiled for 10 minutes. Many tea-drinking nations of the world have literally survived because they boiled water. Certainly in many parts of India drinking the local water witout boiling would be disastrous.

Most city water supplies are quite safe, and from a health point of view are in no way dangerous. There are apparently a few communities who have water supplies that may be marginal. The water supplies are under fairly good control must meet U.S. Public Health standards. If for any reason and you fear it may be contaminated with germs, it can be boiled.

If you use distilled water or bottled mineral water keep it in the refrigerator and if you keep it very long, you had better boil it before using it for consumption. Cooking and boiling serve a very useful health purpose, killing germs that can cause human disease. Food and water supplies are age-old vehicles for transmitting typhoid, cholera and innumerable diseases.

Struggle for unity on a bumpy path

World of religion

by David E. Anderson

The present phase of the ecumenical movement — marked by the second Vatican Council's "Declaration on Ecumenism" and the efforts of nine Protestant denominations in the Consultation on Church Unity to find a way of uniting — is only a little over a decade old.

Already, however, the movement has been accused of collapsing or, by some more kindly critics, of bogging down in talk without any action. Some of the criticism has even come from those most committed to the movement's goal of unity.

United Methodist delegates to last month's plenary session of the Consultation on Church Union, for example, refused to affirm an effort by COCU members aimed at moving the nine churches toward a mutual recognition of members, that "membership in a particular church is full participation in the whole people of God."

THE METHODIST delegates, virtually the only plenary participants to vote against the proposal, said they did so because they were disappointed that the statement did not go far enough.

One of the major architects of the international ecumenical movement, however, has recently given a ringing defense of the movement, in particular the aspect so often criticized — dialog.

Cardinal Jan Willebrands, president of the Vatican Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity, in this year's Paul Watson Lecture, marking the 10th anniversary of the Second Vatican Council's decree on ecumenism, said dialog was one of the most important points in the Council's teaching on ecumenism.

"There has certainly been no greater change in the relation between the Roman Catholic Church and other churches and communities than the change from a polemical attitude to dialog, from the prejudice that 'the other' is an adversary in the Christian cause to accepting that he is a brother in Christ," Willebrands said.

"At present we find ourselves in a situation where schisms are already many centuries old so that we have grown apart in nearly all fields of Christian life, as for instance, theological thinking, liturgy, canon law, spirituality," Willebrands said.

FOR THIS REASON, said Willebrands, dialog is really more than just talk.

"Dialog really begins not merely when each hears and understands the other's witness, but when he recognizes himself through this witness, authentically challenged by the Word of God," the theologian said.

At the same time, Willebrands said the unity movement could not be left just to bishops and theologians.

"The history of the church reminds us of failures coming from methods of that kind," he said.

DIALOG, THEN, rather than an intellectual exercise carried out by theologians will involve "the whole people of God" in repentance, forgiveness, conversion of heart and reconciliation.

"We have to discover again," he said, "theologically and spiritually what unity means in the light of the Gospel, in order not only to manifest it through common witness as far as this already possible, but also to restore it where it has been lost, or to heat it where it has been wounded."

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

WHEREAS, the Zoning Board of Appeals of the Village of Mount Prospect did meet on the 25th day of July, 1974, and on the 24th day of October, 1974, at the hour of 8:00 p.m., at the Mount Prospect Village Hall and did hear Case No. 28-V-74, pursuant to proper legal notice; and

WHEREAS, the Zoning Board of Appeals of the Village of Mount Prospect did hear this request to construct a second story addition to the existing building with a front yard setback of twenty-four feet ten inches (24'10") of the property line adjacent to Greenfield Lane, and to within twenty-five feet (25') of the property line adjacent to Barberry Lane on the lot commonly known as 1120 Greenfield Lane, Mount Prospect, Illinois; and

WHEREAS, the Zoning Board of Appeals of the Village of Mount Prospect did recommend to the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Mount Prospect the approval of this request under Case No. 28-V-74 for the reasons that:

(1) There is a practical difficulty and particular hardship on the petitioner;

(2) The purpose of the variations is not based exclusively upon a desire to make money;

(3) The conditions upon which the petition for these variations is based are unique in that the lot is a corner lot, subject to having two (2) front yards; and

(4) The granting of these variations will not be detrimental to the public or injurious to surrounding property in that they will not alter the essential character of the locality; and

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Mount Prospect have reviewed the matter herein and have determined that the same is in the best interests of the Village of Mount Prospect:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF MOUNT PROSPECT, COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS:

SECTION ONE: That the property being the subject matter of Case No. 28-V-74, being legally described as follows:

Lot 258 in Brickman Manor First Addition Unit No. 3, being a subdivision of part of the Southwest Quarter (¼) of Section 26, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, in Cook County, Illinois, is currently zoned under the Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Mount Prospect as R-1 (Single Family Residence) District, which zoning classification shall remain in effect subject to the variations granted herein:

(a) That the yard abutting the frontmost lot line of the subject property adjacent to Greenfield Lane be reduced to twenty-four feet ten inches (24'10").

(b) That the yard abutting the frontmost lot line of the subject property adjacent to Barberry Lane be reduced to twenty-five feet (25').

SECTION TWO: That all requirements of the Mount Prospect Building and Zoning Code shall be applicable except the variations noted in SECTION ONE heretofore mentioned.

SECTION THREE: That the Director of Building and Zoning of the Village of Mount Prospect is hereby authorized to issue a building permit for construction in accordance with the variations hereinbefore mentioned.

SECTION FOUR: That the variations granted by this Ordinance shall be null and void and of no force and effect whatsoever unless an application for a building permit pursuant to such variations is made and construction commenced within one (1) year of the date this said Ordinance becomes effective.

SECTION FIVE: That this Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval, and publication in the manner provided by law.

Mat action

Five area teams in 20th Palatine wrestling meet

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

Not since 1966 has a Mid-Suburban League team captured championship honors at Palatine's annual holiday wrestling tourney.

And it was way back before the community of Palatine claimed more than one high school — 1962 to be exact — that a local entry came out on top.

All this could change, however, as the Pirate athletic department prepares for the 20th annual running of this big affair. Sixteen teams, five of them from the area, will gather in Palatine's gym for four sessions of headline mat action beginning today at noon and when the issue is resolved tomorrow night, that elusive top prize may have finally returned home.

The local team in contention is Fremd, one of perhaps half a dozen squads given an excellent chance of sweeping off with the big trophy claimed by St. Charles last year.

Dave Powell, probably the premier wrestler in the state last winter, and Joel Hestrup and Jeff Duncan, two other Saints winning titles in 1973, are graduated now.

With the St. Charles ranks somewhat depleted of star grapplers, the door has been left wide open for a replacement at the top of the standings and Naperville, Downers Grove North, Oak Forest, Richards and Peoria Richwoods, in addition to the Vikings, are all waiting in the wings.

Other schools in the running — and just about every one of them has at least one or two standout individuals to toss into the fray — include Conant, St. Viator, Maine East, Stagg, Racine Horlick, Quincy, Rock Island, and Iowa-Grant. Racine and Iowa-Grant are both return entries from Wisconsin.

The Trojans roar into this meet fresh from repeat honors at Prospect's holiday tournament just a week ago and they figure to be strong at all the heavier weights in addition to 105 where Keith Geary will be setting up camp.

Geary claimed top honors at Palatine in the 98-pound class a year ago. Additionally, Naperville has four Prospect tourney champs in tow including Joe Woodward at 145 — a state qualifier last year and runnerup to Pirate John Lonergan at the Palatine meet — along with John Nejmej (132), Don Johnston (167) and Gary Vucekovich (185).

Naperville will be bringing in Dave Larimer among others and this could set the stage for an interesting rematch. Larimer is the defending tourney champ at 105 and now competing at 112. Tom Fee of St. Charles lost that title bout to him 4-2 in 1973 and he too will be returning at 112.

Another Redskin to watch for is Mark Milne, now at 185, the red consolation winner at 167 last year. St. Charles will also be offering up Jeff Hunt at 105, last year's 98-pound tourney runnerup along with returning semfinalist Jesse Walker (132) and Gary Reader (167).

Peoria Richwoods will be led by Mark Ehni, a state qualifier in '73 who dropped a 4-3 toughie in the finals at Palatine at the same weight. Other Knights to watch for will be Paul Betteritge (126), Ben Newman (185) and Dennis Lake (105).

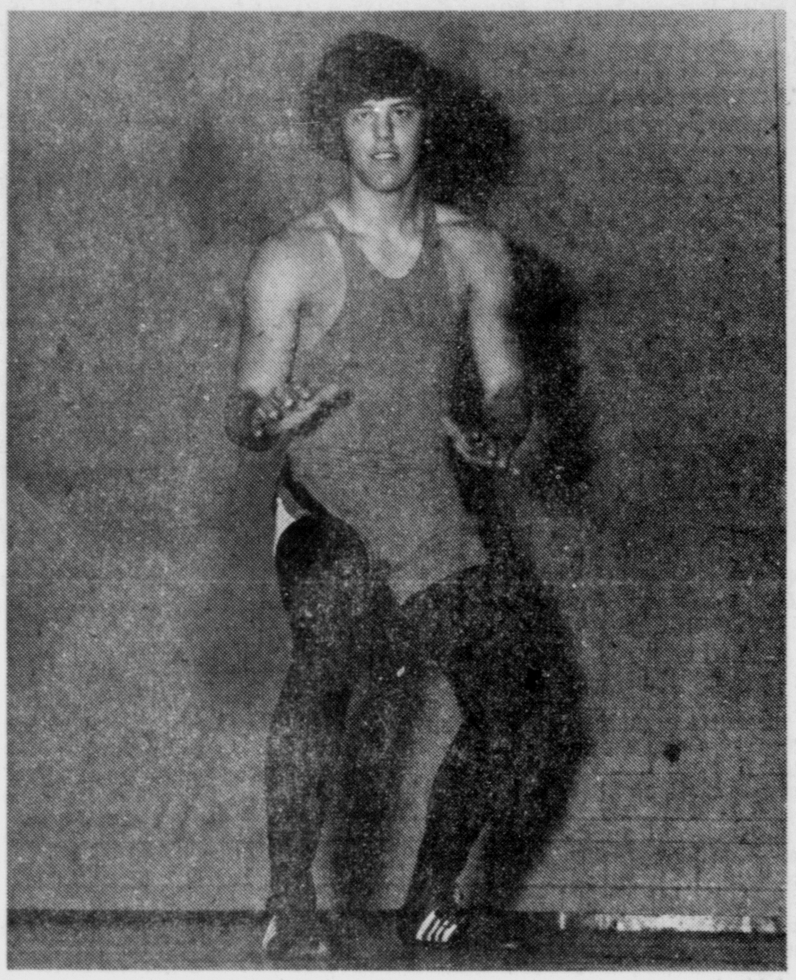

The top individuals out of Oak Lawn's Richards high are juniors Steve Traylor (119) and Tom Ryan Heavyweight). Both copped thirds at Palatine a year ago and went on to win conference titles.

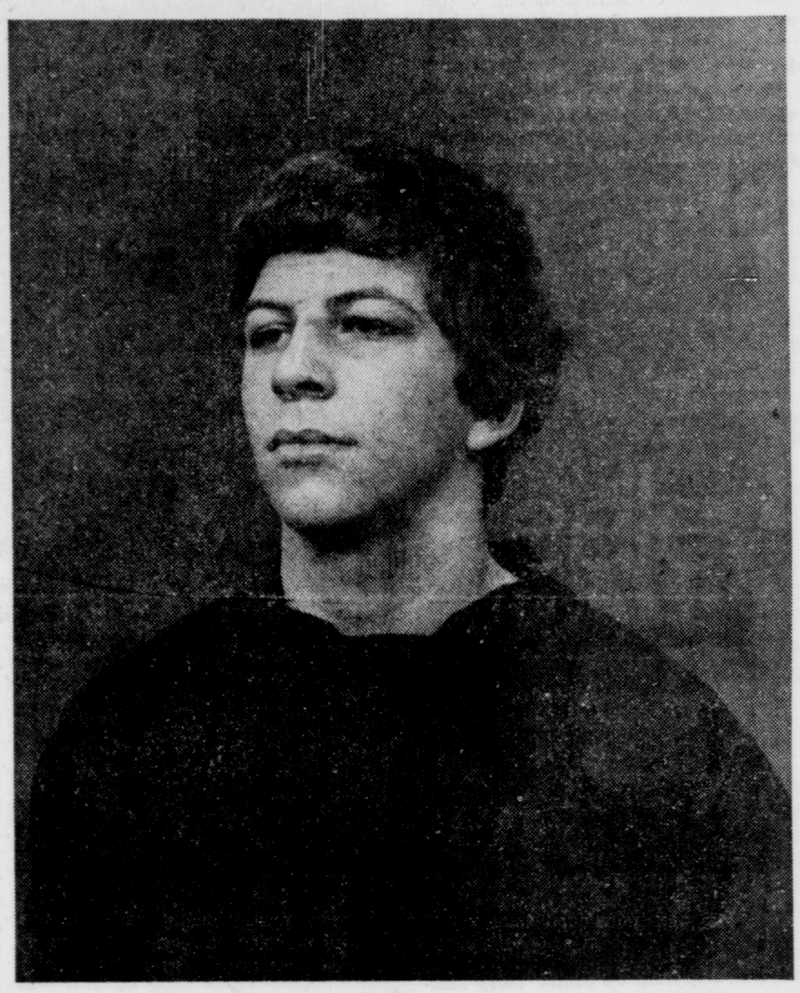

For the Vikes, the names to watch for are Paul Morales (105) and Diego Ramirez (126). Both will lug unbeaten slates into combat this afternoon and they along with Doug McCarthy (119), Dan Lynch (132) and Jeff Sveinsson (167) could pick up a lot of points to help out a well-balanced lineup.

The hosts too have balance with veterans Paul Bordenkircher (112) and Dave Hanetho (119) healthy and leading the attack. Conant's strength appears to lie in the middle weights with Phil Kerr (132), Ron Burhite (138) and Tim Goergen (145) among the Cougars in strong contention.

For Maine East, nursing some wounds, big threats include Curt Schmidt (112), Mike Semmerling (155) and Ed Dembski (167) among others. The Lions will look to Scott Malouf (105) and Scott Zettek (heavyweight) to lead the way.

Following opening round action will be a second session this evening at 6:00. Tomorrow the third and fourth sessions will also begin at noon and 6 p.m. with the finals probably getting underway around 7:30. Admission per session is $1.50 for adults and $1 for students.

LIGHT AND HEAVY. Two of the wrestlers strong in contention for honors at Palatine's 20th annual holiday mat gathering are Mark Ehni (left) of Peoria Richwoods and Tom Ryan of Richards. Ehni was tourney runnerup last year at 112 and will go at the same weight again. Heavyweight Ryan is hoping to improve on his third place showing in '73. A total of 16 schools will field teams beginning with today's opening session at noon.

Wishful thinking, 1975 style

Things I would like to see in 1975:

Sam Snead to win the United States Open at the suburban Medinah course, with a 65 on the final day.

Howard Cosell to get a late-night sports show once a week in Chicago and let everything fly on the deplorable condition of some of the sports franchises in this city.

Everybody to start every night baseball game at 7:30 . . . so that the folks can get home earlier.

Baseball to play everything during the day on Thursdays so the old folks can count on going to the ball park once a week without getting into a big hassle.

Jack Nicklaus or Johnny Miller to shoot an 18 and be over and done with the whole thing.

The Stanley Cup playoffs to end before Labor Day.

A. J. Foyt to get that fourth Indy 500 he wants so badly.

The University of Illinois to beat Ohio State and/or Michigan in football. Just one would be OK. I'm not choosy.

Jim Bouton to come from New York as a regular television sportscaster in this city. He'd tell it like it is.

Bobby Hull to come back with the Black Hawks — in any capacity. Hockey in Chicago will never be the same without him.

More things I would like to see in 1975:

Tom Lundstedt as the Minnesota Twins' No. 1 catcher.

Dave Kingman in cozy Wrigley Field.

Greg Luzinski as the National League's MVP.

Paul Splittorff and Fritz Peterson as 20-game winners — again.

Larry Monroe on the mound at White Sox park.

Another area basketball team in the Elite Eight. How sweet it was.

Norm Van Lier to complete just one game with the Chicago Bulls without complaining about officials.

Muhammad Ali to meet George Forman on the Isle of Capri.

A year without professional sports strikes.

Maybe even a year without professional sports.

Jack Pardee as the head coach of the Chicago Bears. I've never even heard of No. 1 candidate Jack Gotta.

Abe Gibron as an assistant coach with the Cleveland Browns. He never was cut out to be a head man.

Pro football to keep expanding until they put a major league team in Chicago.

Somebody to throw just one more pass to Harlon Hill.

I'd also like to see in '75:

A Notre Dame football game in South Bend.

An Ohio State game in Columbus.

A Michigan game in Ann Arbor.

An Oklahoma game in Norman.

A Nebraska game in Lincoln.

Notre Dame to play Michigan so I could hear both great fight songs at the same game.

Army and Navy to have undefeated seasons going into their big game because I can't ever get it through my head that our soldiers and sailors aren't the finest athletes in the world.

Courageous Gene Littler to win the Masters.

Richie Allen to hit three home runs on opening day — anywhere. He's too gifted and exciting an athlete not to play.

Hot dogs and sauerkraut in all ball parks.

Less professional football and tennis on television.

I'd also like to see in the coming year:

The Little League World Series abolished. The whole idea of a World Series for kids that age is absurd.

A new look at some of the baseball rules in the area youth leagues. There were too many one-sided scores last summer — like 40-0, 50-0, etc. Maybe only nine boys should bat in any half-inning.

More thought put into the post-season bowl games in college football. Four teams that won only six games made bowls this year. Seven teams that won eight games didn't.

More announcers like Harry Caray and Keith Jackson.

Less announcers like Jack Brickhouse and Chris Schenkel.

More football analysts like Johnny Unitas.

Less football analysts like Al DeRogatis.

More work for Virg Carter as a sportscaster on WLS-TV.

The National League to finally get with it and adopt the designated hitter rule.

A job for Ara Parseghian as analyst on ABC-TV college football games next fall.

Bart Starr to be a big success as coach of the Green Bay Packers because he didn't offer much as a television sportscaster.

A much harsher penalty for any college coach or athletic director involved in intentional recruiting violations. Maybe even the loss of his job. Right now the wrong people are punished by the NCAA when a school is put on probation. Why penalize the entire school? If a citizen is convicted of a crime, he is plunked behind bars — not his entire family.

Finally, there is one more thing I'd like to see in 1975:

One winning ticket, please, in the Illinois lottery.

Happy New Year!

Million dollar Prospect Heights park to honor famed gymnast Gary Morava

by MIKE KLEIN

The northeast corner of Camp McDonald Road and Elm Street in Prospect Heights might have been a playfield for Gary Morava during his little boy years. It's less than one mile from home.

Before another dozen months slide away, that land will bear a $1.1 million multi-purpose park district facility in his name.

Gary Morava Recreation Center, meant to honor the world acclaimed gymnast who died last Feb. 28, is under construction on that site, presently Lions Park.

"This came about because Gary was a very strong influence on young people in Prospect Heights and all over," park district Commissioner Bill Kuhns told The Herald.

"Gary made everything look like so much fun. He was a very good kind of spirit for any young person to follow. He was always happy, always had time to talk with adults.

"It was a very natural thing to name our building after Gary," said Kuhns, who authoried the motion that was approved on Tuesday, Dec. 10.

In part, that motion states:

". . . This seems most fitting because of Gary Morava's great love for sports, his dedication to physical fitness, and especially because of his desire to help others excel. Thousands of people remember Gary for his politeness and cheerfulness, and as a model person for their own children to follow. During his life he was known throughout the world for his excellence in gymnastics. His name will not soon be forgotten."

Gary Morava

Morava gained respect and fame as an Illinois prep champion at Hersey High School, six-time All-American at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale and USA representative to many international meets.

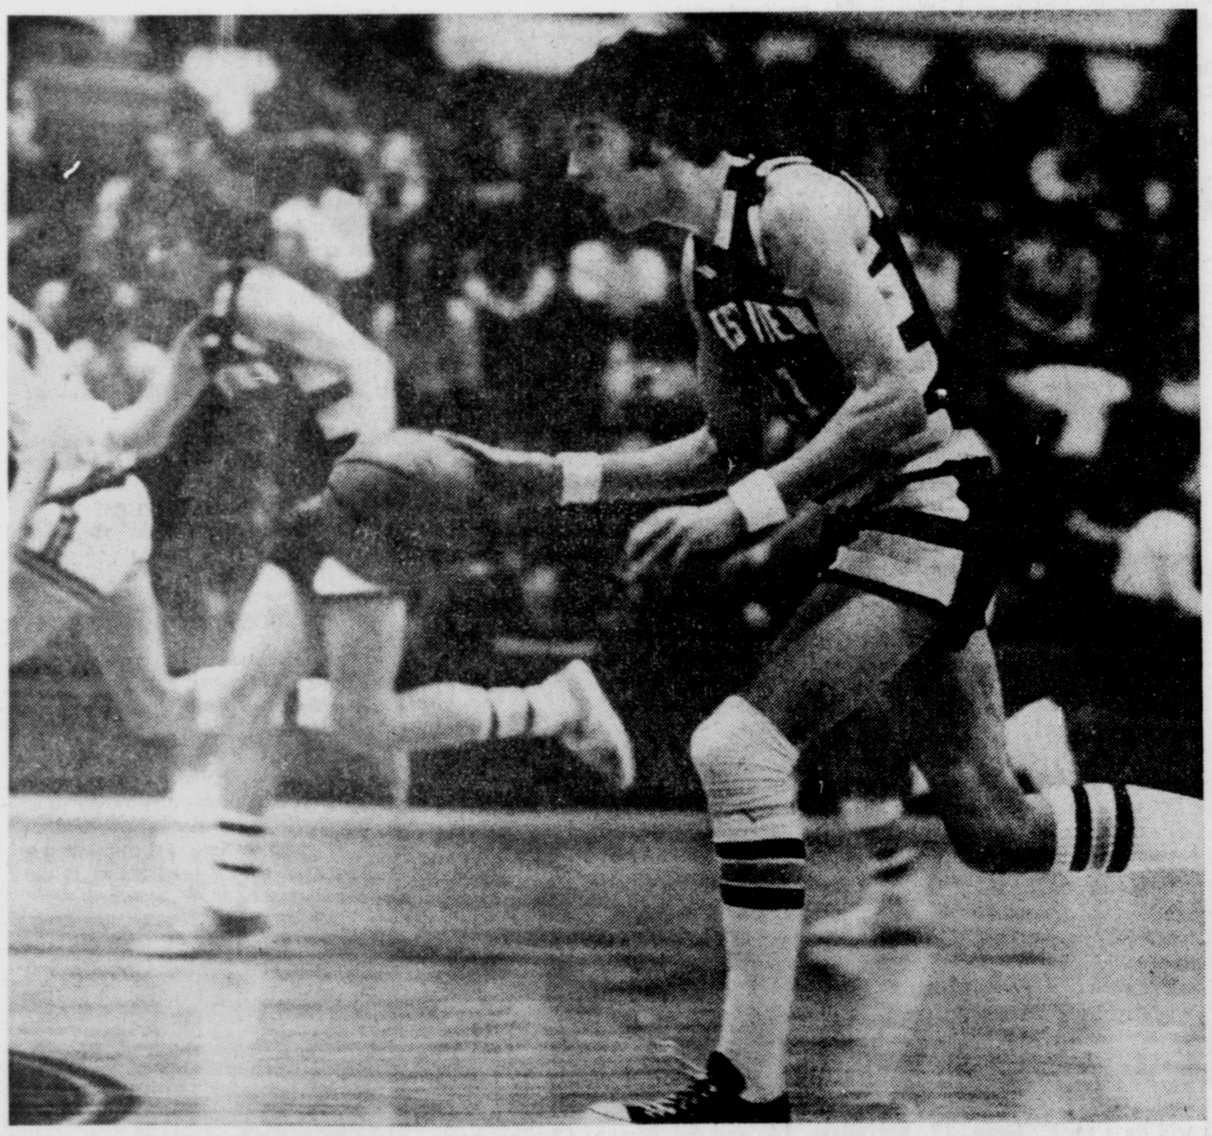

He sustained fatal injuries while in training at Southern Illinois.

Portions of the recreation center bearing his name will be complete next spring. The old Lions Park pool structure has been knocked down. New lockerrooms will be contained within the structure, adjacent to the rebuilt pool.

A gymnasium for basketball and other floor sports, two handball courts, an exercise room and gymnastics area should be finished by next fall. Each lockerroom will contain a sauna bath and whirlpool.

Prospect Heights Park District offices, two craft rooms and a large meeting area will be included. Funds were approved on June 4.

The building will face Camp McDonald Road.

RACEHORSE RUSSO. Leading the fast break is Forest View's Mark Russo, who totalled 17 points and 11 rebounds against Schaumburg Friday. The Falcons' quick offense and even quicker defense left Schaumburg in their wake as Forest View went on to win, 60-53, for their third win with no losses in MSL play.

Area shows strength in tournament action

A Herald Staff Report

The holidays seem to agree with Herald area basketball teams.

There was something to cheer about Thursday as tournament play was staged throughout Illinois.

Area teams, accustomed to rather unimpressive showings in tourney play, moved off to a fast start with Prospect's explosion at Centralia providing the most offensive fireworks.

Over-all, six area schools checked in with victories in scores reported to The Herald by deadline.

PROSPECT TOPS 100

An early game the morning after Christmas didn't bother Prospect's high-flying Knights Thursday.

Coach Bill Slayton's crew unleashed its most explosive offensive attack of the young season in a smashing 101-58 victory over Pinckneyville in Centralia holiday play.

The Knights had a pair of 30-point periods and held a commanding 51-21 lead at halftime over the school with a rich tradition in Illinois high school basketball.

Prospect only made one free throw in the victory — out of three attempts — but cashed for the astounding total of 50 baskets in 88 shots in completely dominating the southern Illinois entry.

Al Black, who didn't do anything to hurt his chances for post-season honors, fired in 17 field goals and the only Knight free throw for 35 points.

Black's runningmate at guard, Mike Quade, chipped in with 16 points, Paul Withey had 14 and Dave Mann 12.

The Knights also dominated in the rebounding department with a 42-24 bulge as Mann pulled down 10, Doug Bonthron eight, and Withey nine.

Prospect returns to action at 1:15 p.m. today in the championship bracket at Centralia.

ARLINGTON BREEZES

Arlington dominated all facets of the game as they battered Mt. Vernon, 62-46, in the opener for both teams at the Centralia tourney Thursday. Coach George Zigman's Cardinals improved their season record to 7-1 with a balanced scoring attack and consistent rebounding.

John Yeazel, a 5-9 guard, was Arlington's top scorer with 15 points, but he got plenty of help from 6-6 center Terry Donahue and forwards Mike Fogel and Jim Grandt. That trio of Cardinals contributed 10 points each and Denny Gaare added nine.

Arlington jumped out to a 17-8 first-quarter edge and they increased it to 38-18 at halftime.

Donahue pulled down 19 rebounds and Gaare had 11 as the Cards compiled a 44-26 advantage over their opponents. Arlington outshot Mt. Vernon 45 per cent to 35 per cent, and the Cardinals converted 73 per cent of their free throws.

A cold third quarter, in which the Cardinals scored just eight points, gave Mt. Vernon a chance to cut the lead, and the Rams moved to within 12 at the start of the fourth period. But they failed to close the gap any further.

Arlington meets the winner of the Salem/Homewood-Flossmoor game at 7 p.m. tonight.

WILDCATS IN ROMP

Wheeling was a little slow getting out of the starting gate Thursday morning, but once the Wildcats got untracked they had no problems in opening round action of the Proviso West tournament.

Coach Ted Ecker's outfit marched into today's game (4:15) with LaGrange with an overpowering 71-47 victory over Marie Curie, win No. 9 in 10 tries this winter.

The Wildcats trailed 6-2 in the first period when they got their offense in gear. Keith Schildt fired in two baseline jumpers, Mike Hallstrom tipped one in, and Schildt came back again from the baseline as Wheeling roared into a lead it never relinquished.

The Wildcats, who showed good balance in the win, built up a 32-15 halftime advantage and held a 57-26 margin in the third period when the reserves came in.

Schildt was high for the Wildcats with 22 points before fouling out. Mike Brzuskiewicz chipped in with 14 and Mike Hallstrom and Steve Criss 10 each with Hallstrom sparkling in his floor game. Ed Kruk had nine points for the balanced Wildcats.

Score by quarters:

Wheeling	12	20	21	18—71
Marie Curie	7	8	9	23—47

SAXONS SET RECORD

Schaumburg set a varsity school record by winning its sixth game of the season at the Luther North Holiday Tournament, stopping Walther Lutheran in the second round, 56-46.

Ed Chmiel led the Saxons to the highest number of wins in a season (they're now 6-4) with 18 points and nine rebounds. Chemiel came through with eight in the fourth quarter, and "was the deciding factor," according to Joe Breault, the Saxons' head coach.

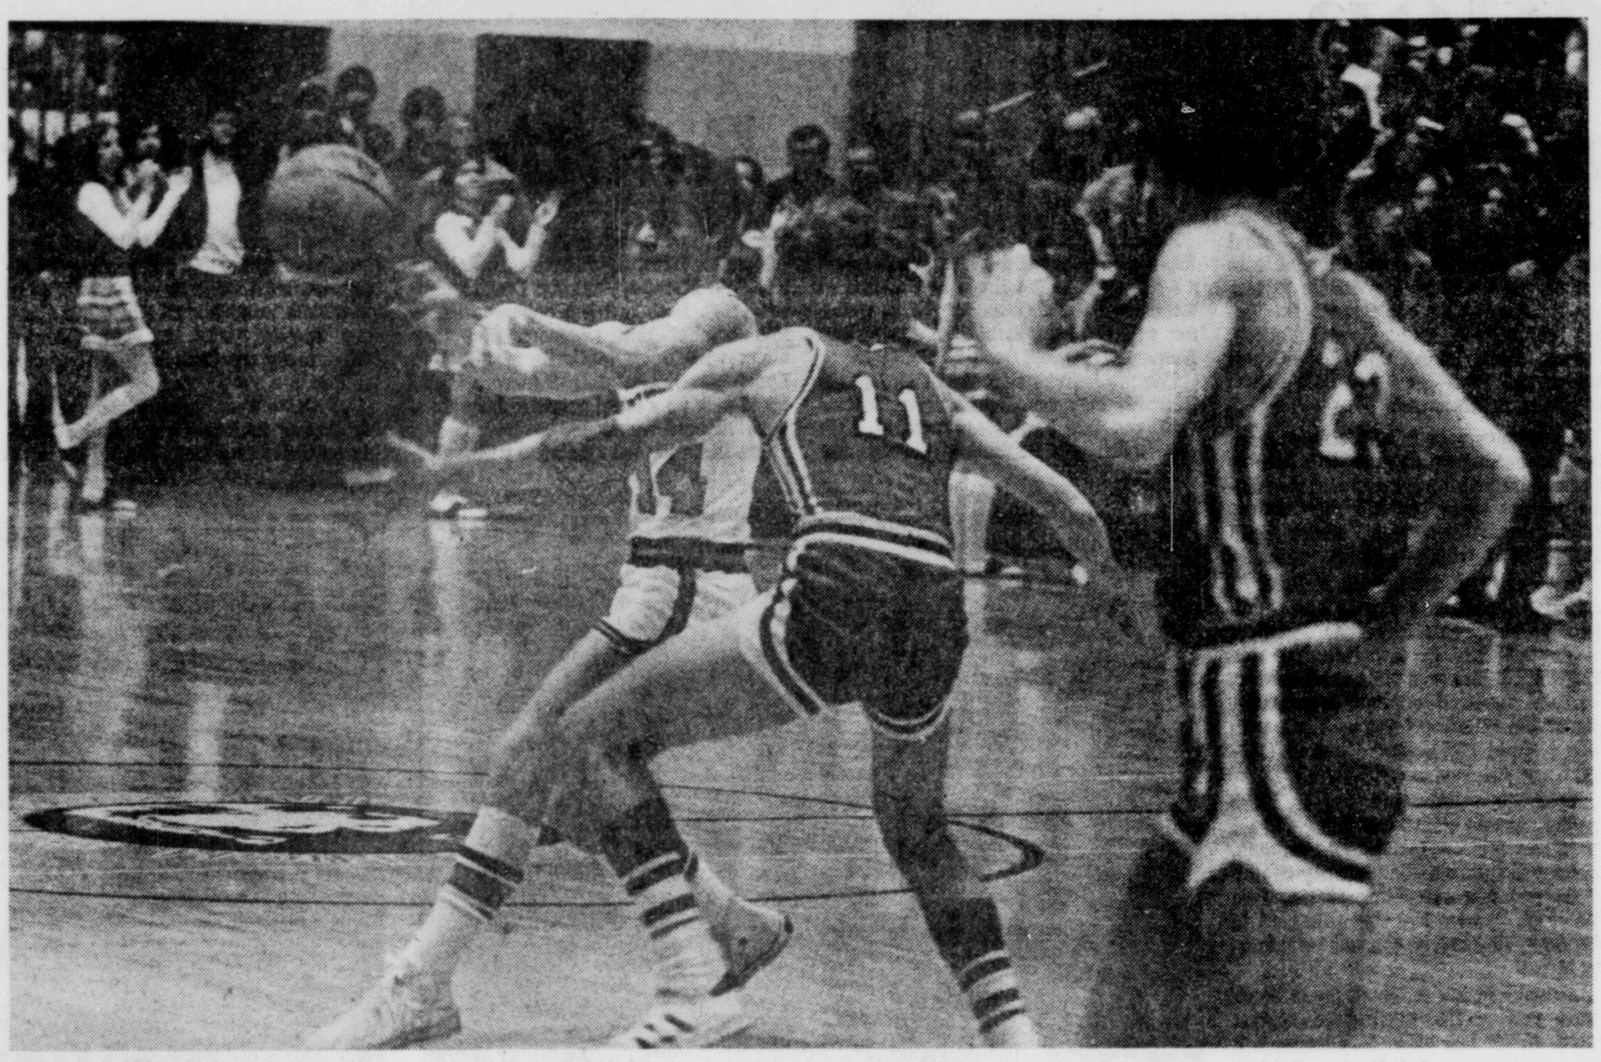

Another key factor was rebounding as Schaumburg held a big edge — 28 to 15.

Walther Lutheran opened up with a box (zone) and one (chaser, playing man-to-man). The one defender shadowed scoring star Jon McIlraith, who finished with 15 points. Chmiel picked up the scoring slack. During that crucial fourth quarter, Chmiel hit on four of his six attempts from the field.

"The kids are real happy," added Breault of the record-breaking start. The Saxons play in the semifinals tonight at 7:30 against Maine North. They'll be in action again on Saturday.

MEADOWS WINS THRILLER

Rolling Meadows, behind the scoring of Tom Holl, won a thriller from Cumberland in the Mattoon Holiday Tournament Thursday night, 64-62.

Holl led the Mustangs with 26 points, all field goals, as they took the lead for good in the fourth quarter. However, Meadows had to play without the services of Holl over the final three minutes.

With just seconds remaining, Steve Breitbeil sank a free throw to put the Mustangs up by two. A Cumberland player traveled, costing his team a final attempt at the basket. Breitbeil finished with 18 points.

Scott Green, who had 12 points, led the team in rebounds with 13. Holl had 12 as Meadows won the battle of the boards, 40 to 37.

The Mustangs will play the winner of the St. Ignatius-Dupo game tonight at 8:45.

COUGARS TRIUMPH

Conant pulled away from Evergreen Park in the fourth period Thursday and landed a 61-53 victory in the Grayslake tournament.

Coach Dick Redlinger's Cougars, now 2-5 over-all this season, used a three-quarter zone press to force turnovers and set the tempo in the evening action.

Evergreen Park held a two-point (28-26) lead at halftime, but the Cougars moved up by four midway in the final stanza and stayed in command at the free throw line.

John Rudzena paced Conant with 16 points. Ron Sulaski chipped in with 13, Mike Frish 12, and Pete Scaffidi 10.

Conant returns to action tonight at 9:00.

FALCONS CLIPPED, 70-62

Forest View dropped its opening-round game of the DeKalb Holiday tourney, 70-62, to a quick Rockford East team Thursday afternoon.

The E-Rabs broke open a close contest in the fourth quarter by outscoring Ted Wissen's Forest View Falcons 18-10. Leading the charge for Rockford East was Ira Matthews, who tallied 11 of his 25 points in the final period. Matthews, an All-State football player last fall, was the game's high scorer.

Forest View had built a five-point margin in the first half, but the Falcons trailed, 38-37, at the intermission. With just two minutes to play, Forest View was behind by only three points, but Matthews and his E-Rab teammates took command and put the decision out of reach.

High scorer for the Falcons was 6-1 guard Neil Schmidt with 17 points, followed by 6-4 center Tony Donile with 15. Dave Ennes had 12 and Mark Russo contributed 10.

Rockford East controlled the backboards with 31 rebounds to just 20 for Forest View.

The loss pushed the Falcons, now 3-6, into the losers' bracket where they will meet Sycamore at 1 p.m. today.

ST. VIATOR STUMBLES

Senior guard Flenard Edwards fired in 25 points from all over the floor Thursday evening to lead Farragut of Chicago to a 55-48 victory over St. Viator in the Notre Dame tournament.

Edwards was the key performer, but it was a cold spell in the third period that sent the Lions reeling to their fifth defeat this winter in 10 outings.

St. Viator trailed by only three points (29-26) at the break, but coach Steve Antrim's outfit went almost four minutes without a point in the third stanza. Farragut cruised from there, building up a 45-33 margin at one stage.

Turnovers plagued both teams, but Edwards was the difference on offense. Bill Foreman was high for St. Viator with 14 points, 12 in the opening half. Glenn Girard chipped in with 13 and Paul Kastner 11.

St. Viator returns to action tonight at 5:00 against Maine West in consolation play.

GORDON TECH POUNDS WARRIORS

Top-seeded Gordon Tech, reeling from two consecutive losses, came out smoking in Thursday evening's opener at Notre Dame and buried Maine West, 86-58.

Junior center Bill Madey of Gordon led everyone with 25 points and owned 18 at the break. He watched most of the final quarters with four fouls and committed a fifth personal during brief action in the last period.

The winners outscored Maine, 32-18, during the fourth period to break the game open. But it was Gordon's full court pressure defense that kept the Warriors off-balance from start-to-finish.

Pressing from the center jump, Gordon Tech built a 10-1 lead as Madey already had six points. Maine rallied to trail by five at the quarter and seven at intermission, 39-32.

But the Warriors never broke Gordon Tech's press to full advantage. It showed the most when Maine scored just one field goal more than six minutes into the third period. They trailed, 52-34, at that juncture.

Madey registered three personals within two minutes after the second half tipoff and was removed. That made little difference as Gordon Tech never suffered defensively. They also placed Kirk Vidas (16 points), Tim Ferrarell (10) and Carl Maniscalco (10) in double scoring figures.

Bill Makuch led Maine with five field goals and five-of-five at the line for 15 points. Glen Heiden added 12.

Gordon Tech converted 10-of-13 free throws during its last period spurt and finished the night at 18-of-30. They were seven-of-14 at intermission.

Dropped into the consolation bracket, Maine plays at 5 p.m. today. The tournament is double elimination.

VIKES IN TOUGH DEFEAT

"We had many opportunities," said Leon Kasuboske after his Fremd team dropped its opening round game at the Danville Holiday Tournament to Danville Schlarman, 59-57.

"We should have beaten them," he said of the nip-and-tuck game that saw both teams enjoy five-point leads several times before Danville held on for the victory.

The Vikings had the ball with three seconds remaining under their own basket. A shot by Ken Hanks missed and the ball was knocked out of bounds. Fremd tried for a lob-in shot in hopes of a last-second tip-in, but the frantic attempt failed.

Tim Gross paced the Vikings with 18 points, eight of them coming at the foul line. Kevin Lavin had 13 with Jim Recher tossing in 11 and Hanks eight.

Recher and Gross were the top rebounders with 12 each. Randy Vaughan was next with five.

Fremd outrebounded the Toppers 40-28 as well as bettering them from the foul line and the field with higher percentages of shots made. However, the Danville team made a few less turnovers and "the officiating was tight and close," according to Kasuboske.

The Vikings will now meet Loyola at 9:30 this morning in the consolation bracket. Loyola nearly upset highly rated Joliet Central, falling in overtime, 69-67.

HOFFMAN ESTATES FALLS

A big first half by Niles North proved too much for Hoffman Estates to overcome in losing its first game to the hosts of the holiday tourney, 70-51.

Niles notched a pair of 19-point quarters compared to Hoffman's pair of 10-pointers in the first half, then the Hawks played North even in the last two quarters. The Hawks used a full court press and a 1-3-1 zone before switching to a man-to-man. The latter defense slowed down the Vikings, but the damage had been done.

Steve Currier, Jim Moore and Joe Gajewski paced Hoffman with 12 points each. Moore and Currier finished 1-2 in rebounding with eight and seven, respectively.

Again, poor field goal shooting spelled the Hawks' doom. They only hit 19 of 60 or 32 per cent. The Vikings shot much higher with plenty of close range shots.

The Hawks will play Roosevelt tonight at 8:30. They'll take on St. Gregory on Saturday night, beginning at 7:00, to cap the round robin tourney. They're still seeking their first varsity win after four losses.

Hoffman Flyers hockey

The Hoffman Flyer Mites defeated the improved Des Plaines Mites 3-1 in League Play at the Woodfield Hockey Center. The game was highlighted with excellent defensive play by both teams. The Hoffman Flyers recorded 36 shots on goal to Des Plaines two. Goal scorers for Hoffman were Steve Hart, assisted by Scott Halby; Scott Marinaro, assisted by Steve Hart; and Steve Quagliata, assisted by Danny Williams. In winning, the Flyers maintained their 1st Place standing in the Woodfield Hockey Center League.

SQUIRTS

The Squirt Flyers were defeated 3-2 by Des Plaines in the Woodfield Hockey Center League last Thursday in a fast, close checking game. Tommy Vavra scored for the Flyers in the 1st period to tie the score, assisted by Dave Bartlett. Des Plaines scored two 2nd period goals to take a two goal lead into the 3rd period. Once again it was Tommy Vavra, assisted by Robbie Ghattas and Dave Ghattas, to bring the Flyers within one goal. Darrell Strociek, Dennis Eggers, and Dave Oine were credited with fine performances, despite the loss. The Flyers remain in 3rd Place in League play.

On Sunday the Squirt Flyers defeated Arlington "Team One" 3-2 in an exciting game. Darrell Strociek scored the first goal of the game, unassisted, in the 2nd period, but Arlington came back with two goals to take the lead. With 2:06 remaining in the 3rd period, Geoff Williams scored, unassisted, to tie the score. Tommy Vavra put the Flyers on top, and won the game with an unassisted breakaway goal with just 18 seconds left to play. Goalie Mike Lewin was solid in the nets once again, keeping Arlington off the scoreboard on a 2nd period penalty shot. Excellent defensive play by Ron Smith and Dave Oine was a major factor in this game, as the Flyers played with only nine skaters in front of goalie Lewin. It was a very well deserved victory for the Flyers.

PEE WEES

The Hoffman Flyer Pee Wees were defeated 5-3 by Des Plaines in a hard checking game played at the Woodfield Hockey Center. The goal scorers for the Hoffman Flyers were Robbie Swanston, assisted by Rich Stieneke, in the 1st period, and one each by Scott Darling and Frank Vavra in the 3rd period. Despite their second loss of the season, the Flyer Pee Wees remain in 1st Place in the Woodfield Hockey Center League.

BANTAMS

The Hoffman Flyer Bantams lost 6-1 to the League leading Des Plaines team. Des Plaines went ahead 2-0 early in the first period and then Scott Walker got the only Hoffman goal on a beautiful play to make the score 2-1. Des Plaines pulled ahead to stay with two more goals in the first period and one each in the second and third periods. Tom Saltarski played a fine checking game, as did Dave Hart and Dan Ryan on defense.

BACKING UP THE PLAY is Cathy Strong (13) as Rene White sends the volleyball back to Wheeling's side of the court. These Prospect players and their teammates defeated the hosting Wildcats recently to win the Mid-Suburban Conference championship, 15-11, 7-15, 15-10. (Photo by Jim Frost)

Pardee is man for Bears' position

Fan's forum

Dear Sirs:

Jack Pardee's my man. The Bears should hire this leader right away. Any person who can coach professional football players for two months, getting them to produce week after week for just the glory of it, deserves a shot at the Chicago job. it's beyond me how he could motivate these men to play without pay.

Pardee was a super player as well as a leader when he was in the NFL. Playing under George Allen for so many years had to mold his character as well as his knowledge of the game.

He's also a winner, having taken his WFL team to the World Bowl. They came within an eyelash of pulling out the championship.

The only reason I'm writing this is in hopes that somebody from the Bears lives in your circulation area and will read it. Sometimes the smallest of acts leads to something much bitter. Maybe this will find its way to George Halas. If it does — please Mr. Halas, give us a Happy New Year with Pardee coaching the 1975 Bears.

Fans Forum:

In several recent articles you have mentioned Elk Grove High School as coming in third in the gymnastics state finals last season. I would like to set you straight on that because Rolling Meadows High School came in third and we are all very proud of it. Elk Grove High School came in fourth.

END OF A DYNASTY

Dear Fans Forum:

You don't know how happy it makes us true football fans to see Miami Dolphins lose in the opening round of the NFL playoffs. Not that we have anything against the Dolphins per se, or against their fine coach Don (Always in the Mondy) Shula, but getting rid of the defending (two-time, yet) Super Bowl champions should always be a main goal.

Last year, we were getting sick of the references to the Miami dynasty and how they would dominate pro football for a million years. For one thing, that kind of superiority is bad for football as it is bad for any pro or college sport. But for another thing, it just wasn't true. Everytime some pro team wins a couple of titles in a row, the writers and everybody else start squawking about dynasties. The only dynasties I've ever seen were the Celtics and the Yanks.

It's a shame the way Miami had to lose — in the last 30 seconds on a strange touchdown pass, but Oakland is a good team and if they manage to make it all the way to the Super Bowl, I predict they'll win and go on to dominate the NFL — at least until next September.

WHY ARA QUIT

Dear Editor:

The resignation of Ara Parseghian at Notre Dame took everyone by surprise, including me. If he would have retired at any time I would have expected to have him quit after last year's national championship. It would have been the culmination of 10 years of coaching at ND.

But after committing himself to at least one more year, he should have set another national championship as his goal. What else could have topped last year's win over Alabama? But now, with the loss to USC putting a damper on the season, 1974 is beyond recovery. Even a win over Alabama wouldn't recoup the season.

My theory is that Ara decided to quit after the upset loss to USC, even though the ND coach has said that he had made the decision after the Navy game. That USC rally was perhaps the most shocking football turnaround I've ever seen, and it just might have been the biggest shock in Ara's life, too.

If I were involved in a game like that, either as a winner or a loser, I think I'd hang up the old clipboard and call it a career. If Ara comes back to coaching — ever — I'd be surprised.

SUPERSTARS NEEDED

Dear Fans Forum:

When will the Chicago sports teams learn their lesson right? You need a superstar on your team, not only to be successful in the standings, but also — and more importantly — to draw fans to the stadium. The Black Hawks proved it when they lost Bobby Hull and the Bears did the same when Gale Sayers and Dick Butkus quit. It should be evident to the Cubs and Sox by now, but, no, they trade away Dick Allen and Billy Williams. The Cubs are so dumb! They had their best pitcher in 60 years and they traded him away, too.

Upset time for Harper? Hawks play Iowa entry

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

A multiple shock could be waiting in the wings for Muscatine (Iowa) Junior College when they open the Highland Classic today against the Harper Hawks at 1 p.m.

Picked as the favorite in the eight-team field but something of a mystery to Harper coach Roger Bechtold, who knows only that they've gone over 100 points in some games, Muscatine may be looking past the 1-8 Hawks.

"I think they will be very surprised," Bechtold said. "They'll see our record and figure they've got a breather in the first round. I don't think they can be any better than Oakton and we played with them."

It has been nearly a fortnight since Harper played with Oakton, cutting into a 15-point second half lead and taking the Raiders down to the final two seconds before falling 83-82.

The excellence of that effort has carried over into the Hawks' two weeks of preparation for the upcoming tournament.

"Our practices have been very productive," Bechtold said. "We've been working on our running game and full court presses and I've been really happy with the attitude of the team.

"We're going to have to run and use our quickness to pressure other teams into making mistakes. The job we did against Oakton really picked the team up."

Bechtold will field the same starting lineup he opened with against Oakton. Doug Doppke and Mike Miller will be at the guards, Chris Mielke, Steve Schmidt and Mike Millner will man the front line.

Millner, averaging an even 20 a game, is ranked fourth in scoring in the Skyway Conference. He played his best game of the season against Oakton, gunning in 26. In the Skyway, the Hawks are 1-4 and averaging less than three points a game fewer than their opponents.

The one team Harper trimmed in conference play, Mayfair, is ranked at the bottom of the eight team pile in the Highland Classic. Beyond favored Muscatine there is Rock Valley, Joliet, Sauk Valley, Olive-Harvey and the hosts, Highland Junior College.

The double tournament extends through tomorrow.

Deerfield 4, Arlington 0

In the opening periof it looked like Arlington would get the victory. But a strong Deerfield team turned the game around in the last periods to win despite great play by John Ackels, Greg Ogorzelec and Paul Guza.

Lake Forest 6, Arlington 0

Again, Arlington looked strong in the opening period but couldn't stand up to a very strong Lake Forest team. Goalie Dan Kwilas made 29 saves and Sam Krause, Mark Brunner, Brian Pond, Chip Anderson and Jeff Robins all had good games.

Deerfield 4, Arlington Heights 1

Arlington Heights 3, Wilmette 0

Elk Grove High School's winning streak ended at seven games with a tough loss to Barrington High School, 5-3.

Mat headaches for Hawks

Going with only a four-man lineup last week, Harper's wrestling team had little success in meets on the road and at home.

At Dixon the Hawks fell to hosting Sauk Valley 51-24 after dropping a 48-24 decision to Kirkwood. In a four-team gathering on their own mats three days later they managed a tie with Thornton 41-41 but lost to Joliet 48-12 and the U. of Illinois jayvee team 41-18.

Against Kirkwood, Bill Nash came up with a default win at 150 but Bob Fisher dropped a tight 6-5 decision at 126 and later Eric Nickerson was pinned at 167 and Tom Balmes lost 14-9 at 177.

Balmes turned around and pinned his Salk Valley foe at 1:31, but Nash and Nickerson were stuck and Fisher lost another heartbreaker, 10-9.

Saturday Balmes was a 5-2 winner over Thornton, Nash won by forfeit and Nickerson drew 3-3 but a host of other forfeits left the Hawks only able to salvage a stalemate.

Fisher won by forfeit at 134 over Joliet while Nash lost 6-3, Balmes was edged 6-5 and Nickerson lost by fall. Versus Illinois Nickerson forged an 8-4 triumph, Balmes came up with a 7-4 verdict and Nash won by forfeit while Fisher was losing 7-2.

Rich Central meet attracts top gym squads

The Elk Grove Grenadiers, plagued with injuries but still averaging nearly 130 points per meet, will lead a field which includes five area teams into the Rich Central Gymnastics Tournament tomorrow at 1 p.m.

Fred Gaines' Grens will have to do without the services of Gene Christensen, who is out with a shoulder injury, and Mike Karalius, who suffered third degree burns on both arms. Their absence, especially all-around man Christensen, showed up in Elk Grove's conference meet against Forest View when their team score dipped below 130 for the first time this year, to 127.31.

Forest View will also be in the field at Rich Central. The Falcons are a young team but have shown steady improvement in conference dual meets. They improved their 64 point average by almost eight points in the Elk Grove meet and feature all-around man Craig Watkins, who is especially strong on free exercise.

The other area teams in the Rich Central field are Buffalo Grove, which has gone over 100 points in each of their dual meets, Schaumburg and Maine West.

Here's one option you can't get from a car dealer.

Real rustproofing. A dealer can't order it from the factory. Because it has to be done after the car is completely assembled.

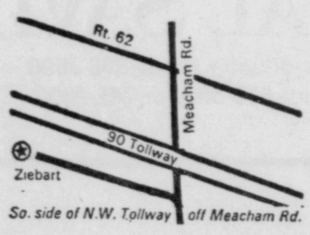

Some car dealers will do a so-called "rustproofing" job, but that's about all. They might even say it's the "same as Ziebart." That's not true. Because they don't have the training, equipment or know-how to give you complete rustproofing.

At Ziebart Rustproofing we've got the tools, the sealant and the technicians to do it right.

If you're buying a new car, you should check us out. Why not give us a call?

Flames accept American flags

At Randhurst Twin Ice Arena Sunday, the Flames Hockey Club was presented with 575 American flags by County Board Commissioner Floyd Fulle. The flags were donated to the Flames to take to Helsinki, Finland, where they will compete in the Pastorl and Titan tournaments.

The Flames will be playing in 18 games against teams from Finland, Sweden and Canada. The American flags will be presented to all the players on these teams.

The Flames, an open hockey team, boys in Pee Wee (11-12 yr. olds) and Bantam (13-14 yr. olds) divisions are the only American team to compete in these events. The team left Dec. 19, for 15 days, chaperoned by club President Bob Anderson, general manager Bob Zombo, coach Ken Rzepecki and trainer Doug Carlberg.

Randhurst skating recital

Leading amateur figure skating champions and selected students from Randhurst Twin Ice Arena will present a special holiday recital and skating exhibition from 4:30 to 5:50 tomorrow at the Arena, located at Rts. 12 and 83 in Mount Prospect. Called "Holiday Happening," the program is open to the public at no charge. The program will be conducted by Randhurst's Director, Jan Serafine.

Featured in skating exhibitions are 17-year old David Santee and the youthful brother-sister team of Frank and Beth Sweiding of Prospect Heights.

Santee's many accomplishments include being three-time Upper Great Lakes Senior Men's Champion; 1974 Grand Prix Champion and winner of the Nebelhorn trophy, both earned in European competition this summer, and 1973 World Team member representing the United States in international events.

Frank Sweiding, 20 years old, is a United States Figure Skating Association double gold medalist who with his 16-year-old sister Beth — also a gold medalist — captured the 1974 Upper Great Lakes Senior Pairs Championship. The talented duo also ranked fifth in pairs this year in the USFSA nationals.

From campuses nationwide

—Rick Johnson, a graduate of Maine East High School, will wrestle in the 158-pound class for Northern Illinois University at the Midlands' Wrestling Tournament to be held Dec. 27-28 at Northwestern University's McGaw Hall.

—George Moldenhauser, from Mount Prospect, wears No. 1 and plays goal for the University of Wisconsin-Stout hockey team. The 6-2, 185-pound junior is averaging 34 savers per game for the 3-2 Bluedevils.

—Ralph Bosch, a promising sophomore center from Arlington Heights, was recently awarded his first varsity football letter from Yale University. Bosch, who played in a reserve role for the 8-1 Elis this season, was the regular center on punts, field goals and extra points for the Ivy League co-champions.

A graduate of St. Viator High School, Ralph is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bosch of 530 S. Princeton in Arlington Heights.

—Tilly Riske, a freshman at MacMurray College from Palatine, has been selected co-athlete of the month for her performance on the women's volleyball team. Tilly has led the team in service aces, blocking spikes and is fourth in spiking.

Tillie was selected player of the game against Quincy College, Greenville College, McKendree College and Danville Junior College.

She also was selected as the tennis team's Most Valuable Player early this fall.

—Deb Sliter, of Mount Prospect, received her second award in field hockey from Iowa Wesleyan College. Deb is a sophomore and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Sliter of Mount Prospect.

—Saint Joseph's College (Ind.) will induct Ken Bates, a teacher in School District 23 in Rolling Meadows, into their Sports Hall of Fame on Jan. 18.

Bates, a native of Chicago, ranks as one of the top interior linemen in the Pumas' history. He won All-Indiana Collegiate Conference first team honors during 1956-58, played in the 1956 Aluminum Bowl game and was a stalwart blocker for a crunching ground offense that led the Pumas to a cumulative 21-6-1 record during his varsity career.

• Frank Czarnecki, from Hersey High School, reached the quarter-finals in two wrestling tournaments at the 177-pound weight class for the Illinois State University wrestling team.

• After a rigorous two-day workout and tryout session, Jim Shallow, from Wheeling, has been named a member of the 1974-1975 St. Norbert College hockey club team.

Shallow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Shallow, 18 Willow Rd., is a non-major at the college.

• Jeff Haseman, an Arlington grad, won two individual events for the Carthage College swimming team. He took the title in the 1,000-yard freestyle in a time of 11:10.4 and the 500-yard freestyle in 5:19.6.

He also swam on the school's 400-yard freestyle relay team that set a new pool and team record of 3:32.
